The Tale of the Prostitute

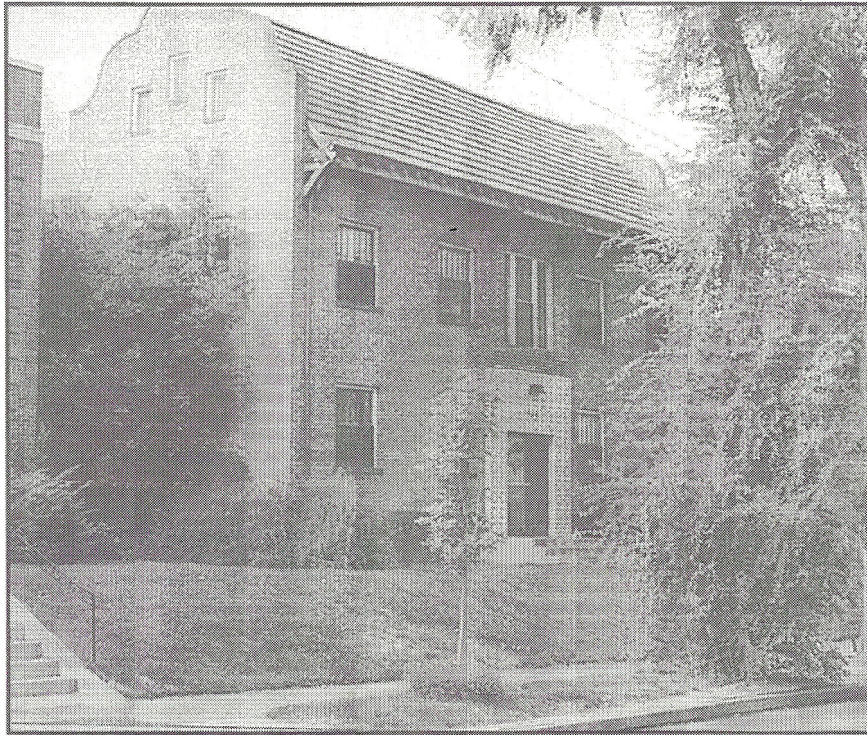

(The following short article was written originally for the Universal Order website but never got the chance to appear as the site itself was terminated by a new service provider who had a so-called "anti-racist" policy. We reproduce it here for the first time because we feel it is the perfect illustration of the dynamic which made possible not only Revelation but all of the prophecies of the Bible.)

Prostitutes are featured very prominently in the Bible, even in the role of heroine sometimes. This is a strange – but true – tale in which the character of a common prostitute figures centrally... but not in her capacity as a prostitute. She might have been anything and, indeed, there'll be those who'll wish I'd have painted her in the role of something else. But it is in the interest of holding to absolute integrity in relating this story that no single detail has been changed, nothing has been deleted, nothing embellished.

During my initial stay in Denver through 1994 and 1995, I had developed the daily ritual of walking each afternoon from my apartment the several blocks downtown to the post office where I maintained a box. From there I'd routinely go to a nearby bakery for coffee and pastry as I read my mail. Afterward, I'd make my way home again.

This particular day I had left the post office with my mail and was bound for the bakery via my usual route. Here was a triangulation involving Marion Street, where the post office was located, and Park Avenue, which led briefly back around to Colfax Avenue where the bakery was. There, off about a block to the left of this short triangle, for probably the previous century, stood a row of stone apartment buildings marking what was then the beginning of the "sketchy" part of town.

This day, for no reason that was apparent, my attention was drawn and rooted to those old buildings and, more strangely, to one specific semi-basement apartment under the very last one in line. There was nothing going on, nothing whatever, to attract my notice in that direction and yet I couldn't tear my gaze off that one spot until my unbroken stride had carried me well past it and I was about to turn back onto Colfax.

I proceeded to have my coffee and cake as usual before starting back home. The strange little incident was well on its way to being totally written off. Nearing the intersection with Washington Street, where I lived several blocks further south, from behind me there came a female voice saying, "Hey, mister. You got time for a date?"

It was a prostitute, the merest slip of a woman. Her name was Sandy. I told her all I had was a ten-dollar food stamp, which was the truth. Her response was, "I'll take it."

She said, "Let's go to my place." I was then taken on a real excursion jay-walking, cutting across vacant lots, up embankments, through holes in fences, etc., until we arrived... at that very basement apartment that had held me transfixed not an hour before.

What had just taken place here? (Aside from the commission of a misdemeanor?)

Why had my attention been drawn to that one spot which I had passed by dozens of times before without noticing? There had been literally nothing, no one, no disturbance of any kind in that direction that should have drawn my glance and held it in that way. And yet it was held riveted as I turned my head even as I continued to walk. It would most definitely have been forgotten had I not been brought back there soon thereafter. And I was never to go there again.

I am convinced that the experience could have occurred involving an entirely different set of circumstances. The significant thing was not what took place but HOW it took place.

In connection with what I've written in several places concerning the phenomenon which makes possible such things as prophecy, premonition and deja vu, I am also convinced that on that very afternoon I had a brush with whatever it is.

I have to believe that I had already been in that apartment previously, in another run-through of this drama that we are all starring in. "Parallel dimensions" is the best term for it that I can come up with.

At that time and place, at least insofar as I was concerned, two dimensions were extraordinarily close to overlapping each other. And so I knew and yet I didn't know.

So much of an exciting nature is suggested by this.

If there is a supernatural, this is it. How could I have already been there? Is the future an illusion or is the present an illusion? Or are they both equally real? How about the past? What came over me in that moment was a kind of awareness that it would soon be time to return to that place? The act itself was so insignificant that it causes me to rule out the involvement of some omniscient intelligence that may have been trying to tell me something. Instead, I am inclined to think that it was a fluke, a freak thing but, at the same time, a chance look behind 'this curtain of what passes as "real".'

Exactly like what God's very name – "Yahweh" or "I Am That I Am" – means: Physics.

Now, certainly if I had been there before, then that would have to mean that this was the past. Because any such premonition remains out ahead of us, not behind us. At the same time, had I been there before in this dimension – or this life – then that memory would not have changed this from being the present. Were I to return to that spot in this life, we would then have all lined up the past, present and future according to the linear notion of "time". But that, obviously, is a conception of life about as flat as a piece of cardboard.

There are dreams and there are memories. These would amount to illusions almost as much as written fiction or history. But none of this can explain my experience there on Capitol Hill that day. And that's all I can personally attest to. But it is enough if examined properly.

Proof of after-life? Or proof that life never really ends? Or proof that I've lost my mind?

When they in the New Testament carry on and on about eternal life, when they say that should anyone approach you with an alternate doctrine that you should send him back to the Devil, do they hallucinate or lie?

This brain in this skull didn't exist when I first visited that apartment. So what manner of cognizance – of memory – was it that triggered that brief moment of hyper-awareness? Throughout my career as an atheist I could never conceive of any awareness after the death of the brain. Obviously, there necessarily was and is some sort of transmission of awareness – or intelligence – between these multiple dimensions: Future, present and past. And, just as obviously, each one in its own time and place must be as real and solid as any of the rest.

At this point a practical certainty is that the popularly held notion of linear time is all wrong. Absolutely certain is that the concept of linear history is dead wrong. History we know is cyclical. It begins to look like time is broken up into these same parallel dimensions I've already spoken of.

Everything is all on-going at the same time. I'm not a physicist. Perhaps you get the idea. No wonder Christ and the apostles had to leave this aspect of it to, "You must believe."

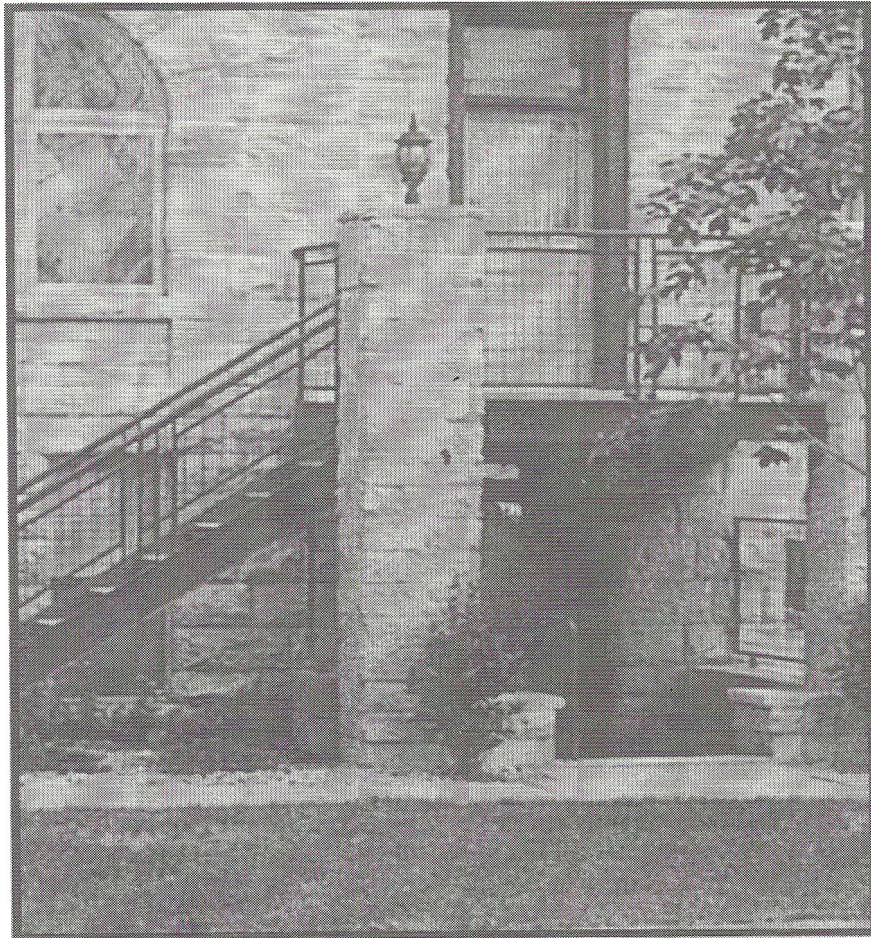

Anyway, I've seen that it is real. Now, it would follow that a God – or a roving band of space travelers – would easily have the capacity to not only know all this but to manipulate and CONTROL it. Hence, the "visions" imparted to the prophets and to Saint John when he wrote the Revelation. Interpretation of these same visions makes up another matter.

"Belief" was never good enough for me, in anything. But if I can, on my own, gain solid insight into something that is both undeniable and logical, then even I can afford to apply a little "faith" toward the rest which remains as yet a mystery.

Background to Revelation

The Gideon Bible I've been using these past months for these articles consists of a total of 1291 pages. If the theory I'm about to present is accurate, then we presently stand at page 1289 in regard to the fulfillment of prophecy.

It's necessary to preface this with a word of explanation.

In Second Peter, 1:16, it states, "For we have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eyewitnesses of his majesty."

Certainly a great deal in the earliest books of the Bible consists of just this: Stories, myths, tales – fables which were formulated to enhance and convey lessons and events that, even by that time, had become dimmed and obscured with the passage of millennia. "Back-dating", I call it.

We know, of course, that it was no "apple", no "tree" and certainly no "serpent" that had a part in the original sin in the Garden of Eden. That is fable. No matter. Enough literal information is included to tell us exactly what the nature of the original sin was which triggered the fall of man.

Genesis, Chapter Three, opens with the "serpent" having "beguiled" the woman, Eve. Following this, the man, Adam, becomes guilty of the same sin.

God's own reaction to the discovery of this is reflected in these words, "And the Lord God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life:"

"And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel."

"Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception; in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee."

A fable, a faint memory going back perhaps half a million years to the time when the carefully controlled experiment of DNA colonizing of this planet by extraterrestrials jumped the track through some sort of mutiny or rebellion.

The inference is that, prior to this event, human kind, or at least Adamic kind, did not reproduce itself through means of sexual intercourse but obviously was brought forth artificially, through "test tubes" or the like. Now the safety of the laboratory conditions had been violated.

Backing up just a bit, some of the very first words out of God's mouth, as quoted in Genesis, 1:26, are these, "And God said, let us make man in our image, after our likeness:"

In that short line are contained two huge and shattering implications: One, that there is a group discussion going on here and; Two, that Adam and his line are to be indistinguishable from God himself and, presumably, his angels, or "messengers".

Here is the colonization of earth as it begins under the most rigorous and ideal of standards.

Genesis, 4:1, states that, "And Adam knew his wife; and she conceived, and bare Cain, and said, I have gotten a man from the lord." The next verse has Abel being born. In Verse 8, Cain kills Abel.

We must jump way forward, to First John, 3:12, for this further bit of enlightenment on the nature of Cain, "Not as Cain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother."

The implication here? That Cain was the issue of the seduction of Eve by Satan. The first murderer.

Genesis, 4:11, picks up, "And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand;"

"When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth."

In the rest of Chapter Four, God gives the "Mark of Cain" and Cain went to live on the east of Eden, in the land of Nod. Here, in this land, Cain married and began his own line, apparently one possessing a culture.

Back-dating comes in here at several points: The issue of any cross-breeding will emerge bearing its own "mark" automatically in the form of different pigmentation and facial features. Behind this will be inherent traits, such as a propensity for violence and the lack of ability to sustain a thriving civilization.

So matter-of-factly does Genesis drop mention that there most certainly were other human types in the world already at the time of Adam. Who and what were they?

All we need to know is that they were not White and that the teeming billions of the colored "Third World" today certainly represent their continued and expanding line.

Chapter Four of Genesis ends this way: "And Adam knew his wife again, and she bare a son, and called his name Seth: For God, said she, hath appointed me another seed instead of Abel, whom Cain slew."

"And to Seth, to him also there was born a son; and he called his name Enos: then began men to call upon the name of the Lord."

Seth – the replacement – from whom the Adamic line was to descend. Genesis, 5:3, says, "And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his own likeness, after his image; and called his name Seth:"

– From exactly this point does the conflict in the Bible and throughout all human experience proceed. The Adamic – or White – line in a world where there also exists an alien breed. It comes down in its essence to a struggle for the survival of the God-like strain in an ocean of genetic pollution.

Fable or not, it doesn't matter. This is the story as presented by the framers of the Bible. Its lesson is plain. It was intended by them to be a warning to us. Embellishments aside, we may know it is all rooted in fact because we see about us today in the present a world about to die because of the runaway effects of just such a scenario as presented there, in Genesis.

By this, we may know it is all true.

A half a million years of humanity. This is a lot longer than current history allows for and yet it makes a lot better sense in every respect than the six thousand or so years held by theologians. For one, the Creation Myth itself would not have faded so badly after a lapse of only approximately two to three thousand years, as it is currently accepted, before the stories were committed to record the way we now have them. But, after countless millennia, yes. For another, as we begin to get into our main topic of the Revelation, a scant two thousand years from its writing to its fulfillment, when compared to all the time that had gone before, would indeed be immeasurably short and would make the phrase "the time is at hand" ring absolutely true.

Why a half-million years? Because that is the time-frame gleaned from the translations of the Sumerian texts from which Genesis was extracted. The discovery and translation of these cuneiform tablets and cylinders was only accomplished within the last hundred years.

We need to realize here that history is cyclical and not linear. Civilizations have arisen and fallen all throughout this time and, in the most remote instances, have left behind nothing but more of the common myth and legend that we today toss off as "fable". As Adolf Hitler observed in Mein Kampf, men do not go to ruin through lost wars but only through the loss of the purity of their blood which results in their loss of ability to recover or maintain themselves. This is the death that was promised in the Garden of Eden. There will be no reaching the "Tree of Life" – eternal Godhood – as long as the Adamic community absorbs or is absorbed by alien blood.

It has been asked why Jesus of Nazareth appeared when and where he did. Only in line with the afore mentioned view of history is the answer made obvious and does it make sense. He came at the moment of absolute crisis for the White race in the world. The formerly White civilization of Egypt, itself the heir of Atlantis, was dead. The heirs to that, the Classical civilizations of Greece and Rome were dying. And there as yet wasn't even a concept of Western Civilization, or "Europe". The White race was facing the distinct prospect of imminent extinction.

Hence, the Messiah, or Savior.

The location? The Promised or Holy Land which God had given to his Chosen People as part of his undying covenant that he would never abandon them against the forces of Satan which sought their destruction, that is, the undoing of God's own original work.

Adolf Hitler

But, by the time of Christ, even the Holy Land itself had been effectively lost due to all of the exact same reasons everything before it had been lost. These reasons, as well as Christ's own purpose, are laid out in the New Testament by his apostles:

From James, 1:12 through 15, "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him."

"Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man:"

"But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away by his own lust, and enticed."

"Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death."

From First Peter, 1:13 through 16, "Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ;"

"As obedient children, not fashioning yourselves according to the former lusts in your ignorance:"

"But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation."

"Because it is written, Be ye holy; For I am holy."

The expression "holy" simply means separated. The term "temptation" is in reference to the strong inertia which impels one to become part of the racial melting pot which the flawed wisdom of man himself always leads to. To "endure" means to be part of that future which will succeed the death of the current mess. "Lust" means sexual actions stemming from the old, or animal brain with anything nominally "human" which may seem attractive, exciting, expedient or merely convenient. "Sin" is the bastard product. "Death" is the end of the line, literally.

To be "sober" is to keep one's attention fixed to those things that are important and everlasting and not upon material diversions of "fun" and "pleasure". "Grace" is when God or Christ comes back personally and saves whatever is left from the general morass the majority will be succumbing to at the end of time. And "ignorance" is the deadly dangerous state of apathy and confusion which lays the individual wide open to the increasing likelihood of himself being lost in the pollution of the blood.

The world Christ and the apostles lived in was a world in its death throes. Through conquest and slavery, that whole civilization was one big racial death trap. Everyone was a "citizen" and, indeed, in the latter half of the Bible, everyone in Christ's world was a "Jew". The future world, if there was to be one, had yet to be envisioned. This might well have been the end.

But the new beginning was set to take off from right there, where the final end might just as well have taken place instead.

From Second Peter, 1:4, "Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust."

"Back-dating" for the sake of instruction or more effective storytelling and "cunningly devised fables" aside, no such label can be attached to the Book of Revelation. The time of Christ and of John, who penned Revelation, can be said to mark the beginning of modern times. We know the date of its creation, there is no room for fake. The future of which it spoke laid fully ahead of it.

Or did it?

Alongside the colonization of the earth by extraterrestrials, the next big bite the new reader will need to take and digest is this: Accepting the premise of inter-stellar travel and genetic mutation hundreds of thousands of years ago, it falls right into line that time-travel is also part of this picture. Time-travel directly implies parallel dimensions. These beings from Genesis could very well still be around, having literally witnessed the beginning and the end.

Here is the Alpha and the Omega.

Throughout the Bible, each time a prophet receives a "vision", the occasion is accompanied by a description of an encounter with something that sounds very much like, in light of our own comparatively advanced technology, a visitor from space. Who knows how the vision is imparted? Most likely of all, a personal trip into the distant future to see for oneself. A video recording or, more likely, via mental telepathy? The only important thing is that these visitors have brought back with them scenes from the future which they wanted ancient man – as well as ourselves today – to have for purposes of comfort and reassurance.

In other words, it has already taken place.

This raises one of several questions for which I can only offer my own hypothesis: Though it all be a done deal, so to speak, unless there be certain variables left undone and this not be a frozen, mirror image, why bother about these visitations and visions? Why bother about such things as "warnings" if there is nothing the individual can do?

Unless it does come as a chance for the individual to "get it right" this time.

On the Island of Patmos

It is assumed that John wrote Revelation about the year 95 A.D. while he was exiled on the Greek island of Patmos. He had come to Asia Minor, what today is Turkey, after the year 66 A.D. when the last of the Whites – the Galileans – departed the area in heed of Jesus' warning. In 70 A.D. the Romans struck and laid waste to Jerusalem and over a million inhabitants. More on the cause of this later.

In the lapse of thirty years, John had familiarized himself with the seven churches to which he addressed Revelation: Ephesus; Smyrna; Pergamos; Thyatira; Sardis; Philadelphia; and Laodicea.

At that time the area was Greek by racial composition and these Christian enclaves held the future of the entire Church in their hands. Only later was the area overrun by Moslem Turks and all White elements killed or driven out. Fortunately by then, the critical job was completed and Whites had established Europe solidly as their home and bastion.

This brings us to one more very large dose of suppressed truth which the reader will have to ingest if any history is to make any sense to him –

The ancient Greeks were direct kin to the ancient Israelites. They had been an early break-away element of one of the Twelve Tribes – that of Dan. It is that this element had departed Egypt even ahead of the Biblical Exodus of Moses which occurred about 1300 B.C. By this time, of course, they no longer were considered Israelites. After the Exodus and the formation of the United Kingdom of Israel, still other elements of Dan broke away and created Phoenicia on Israel's northern border, what today is Lebanon. Following the death of Solomon around 1000 B.C. and the subsequent split and civil war within Israel, the remainder of Dan departed the area altogether rather than be part of the fratricidal slaughter.

The Prodigal Son
By Albrecht Durer

Few people today notice that as the list of the Twelve Tribes of Israel is recited in Revelation, 7:5 through 8, Dan is not included. One of Joseph's sons, Manasseh, is given in its place.

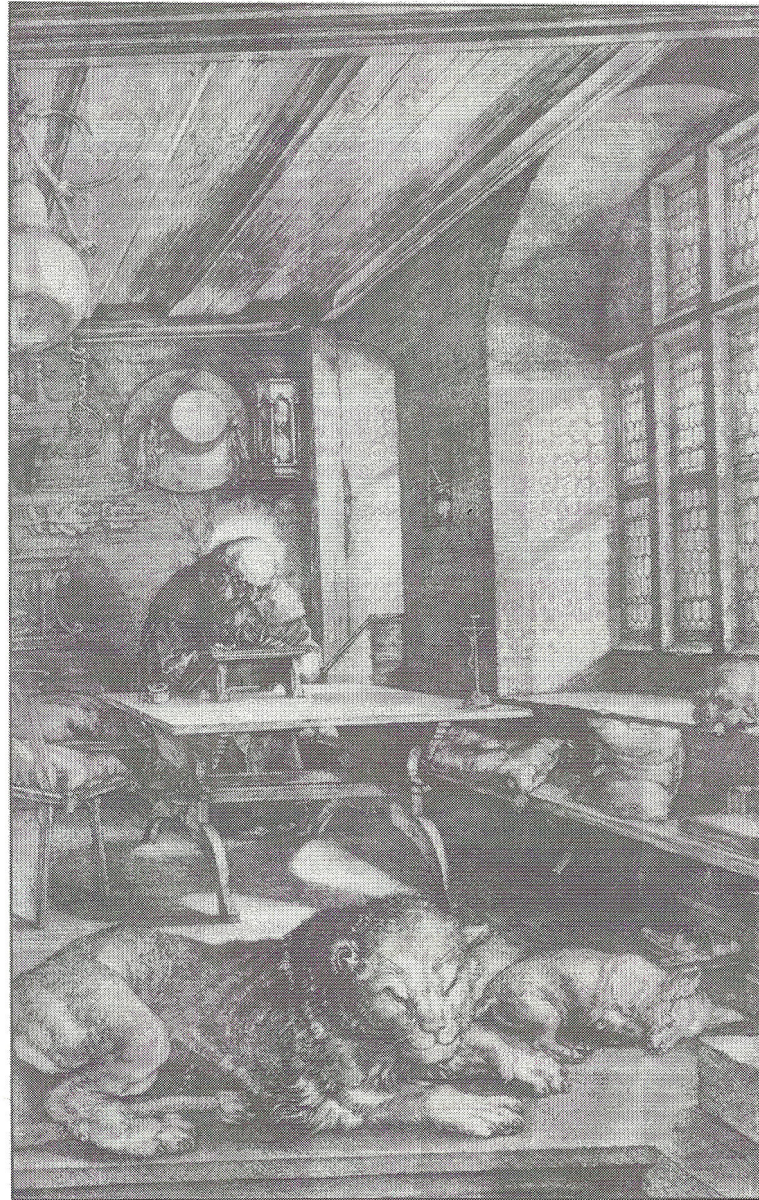

But it is not as though Dan had disappeared. The Danites were sea farers. So were their offspring, the Greeks, and their other offspring, the Phoenicians. Colonization was in their blood just as it had been in the blood of their father from heaven. The very name "Hebrew" is taken from an antecedant of Abraham's, Eber, and means literally "Colonizer".

Very likely the early Mycenaeans of Greece as well as the early Etruscans who made Rome were of these same pioneering wanderers from out of Egypt. Before there was a Greek or a Roman Empire, the Phoenicians had already colonized most of the area of the Mediterranean Sea including the well-known Troy and Carthage. The historic time-line is important here to note: The year 1000 B.C. and Israel stood at its height; 733 B.C. and the Etruscans found Rome; 600 B.C. and the rise of Classical Greece; 587 B.C. and Israel is destroyed and removed to captivity; 510 B.C. and the founding of the Roman Republic; 332 B.C. and Alexander the Great of Greece.

The key here is that Israel and Phoenicia had led the way to the establishment of the Latin World which filled the gap left by the racially perishing Egypt.

Going even further, it was by route of Israel through Phoenicia through Greece, Rome and Northern Europe later that our own alphabet evolved from Hebrew to Phoenician to Greek, afterward to split into Roman letters and Norse runes. Even this points toward one more genuine "revelation" from neglected history –

Though all of the ancient, classical world had collapsed and vanished, even that doesn't mean that its creators had vanished with it. As from out of dying Egypt, they moved on with their ships and sea faring prowess to safer, cleaner haven in the north of the European continent which then stood as a wilderness in the same way as the American West of two centuries ago. They gave their name to the modern land of Denmark and are best known to us today as the Vikings from about the year 1000 A.D. when their spark for colonization again came to life, giving impetus to the creation of Western Civilization.

I go to this degree of detail to illustrate the main principle of history: It is that of pure blood migrating and founding great civilizations; Then, with their spirit and instinct turned rotten through a dose of "over-civilization", one culture collapses while the healthy remnant picks up and moves on to continue the cycle.

And that is the reason why there must be an End-Time and a Revelation. Because there now is no longer any place for any remnant to retreat to. It is End-Game for that reason.

Part of the thrust of this article is that, one, it is a pity that the five-hundred-year gap in between the fall of Israel and the appearance of Jesus Christ is not covered in the pages of the Bible and, two, that people today fail to consider the centuries which have passed since John wrote Revelation. This is a very real blindness which utterly prevents any meaningful understanding of either history or of the Book of Revelation itself.

And it is precisely these two blind spots that I will take up in presenting my own take of Revelation.

Just as John was putting pen to paper in order to give the outline of the future, those people who would literally live and make that future were beginning to position themselves around the northern fringes of the ancient and decrepit empires which had figured in the Bible. One quirk found within the style of Biblical history is that if you weren't very tightly and strictly together there, then, as part of formal "Israel", you either didn't exist at all or you were known as a "Gentile".

The example I have already provided of Israel's own Tribe of Dan illustrates this perfectly. But it didn't end there. Each and every one of Israel's Twelve Tribes left the Middle East after the Captivity, when they were released by Cyrus the Persian in 539 B.C. Of an estimated ten million Israelites who went into captivity, only about fifty thousand are accounted for in the Bible as having chosen to return to Jerusalem.

The main attraction then, which parallels the gaping five-hundred-year vacuum in the narrative of the Bible, went on elsewhere, as the vast bulk of Israel was on the march north into Europe, taking as one of their main routes the Caucasus Mountains and thus gaining the name they share to this day: Caucasian.

Architect
By Albrecht Durer

By the year 516 B.C., Darius of Persia is at war, fighting the Scythians all along his northern flank. These are the Tribes who are now free and back on their feet, having shaken off the killing effects of a culture and belief system that had become infested with and poisoned by racial aliens. More on those aliens later, also.

If there is to be a future, someone has to be there to carry it out. And the prophecies of the Bible – from beginning to end – only concern the people of Israel. If they truly were "lost", as mainstream history claims, then the Bible and its prophecies are meaningless and quaint curiosities and nothing more. The religion that is founded upon them is only a superstition and represents but an "opiate of the masses", just as Karl Marx charged that it had become.

Here's how "lost" the Tribes are: Judah is represented in the modern world as Germany; Dan, as we have said, is Denmark; Benjamin is assembled mainly in Iceland; Issachar is Finland; Asher is Sweden; Naphtali is Norway; Reuben is the Netherlands; Zebulun is France; Gad is Italy; Simeon is Spain; and Joseph's two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh represent Britain and the United States, respectively. (The inclusion of Dan along with Manasseh gives an actual total of thirteen.)

One more of my themes in all of these articles is that, just because you may be unaware of it, that doesn't mean that it isn't so nor does it nullify the reality of anything. It only means that you aren't well-equipped or well-armed and are not prepared to deal with those things you're going to have to deal with one day. It could mean life or death to you and those after you.

Returning to John on the island of Patmos, at this point in time his position might be closely compared to that of Rudolf Hess, the secretary to Adolf Hitler and to whom Hitler had dictated his own testament, Mein Kampf, while in prison in 1924. Hess was the last of the high-ranking German leaders who had been close to Hitler, all the rest having been murdered by the Bolshevik-Democratic "Allies" at the end of the Second World War. Hess had been sentenced instead to life imprisonment in Berlin's Spandau Fortress where he himself was murdered in 1987 before he could be released.

The Romans, rather than kill John – who is assumed to have been the youngest of all Jesus' disciples – decided instead to exile him, allowing him to die alone as a man probably already in his eighties when he re-encountered his old friend and mentor, Jesus of Nazareth, in his vision . But, by this act, they unwittingly made possible the Book of Revelation.

Why John? Besides being the only one from among the original, core following still alive now, when some of Jesus' own prophecies have come to pass – such as the desolation of Jerusalem – he had been perhaps the closest one of them all: He had been with Jesus at the very start of his three-year ministry on earth, having left his family fishing business to follow him; He was the only one among the disciples to be present at the crucifixion; And it was into his care that Jesus had entrusted his own mother, Mary.

Not much can be certain regarding the exact details surrounding the giving of the vision of Revelation to John except to say we can be sure his daily concerns were divided between his memories of half a century before and those three incredible years with Jesus and worries over the fate of the churches he had helped found in Asia Minor. The past and the future.

We neither know when or how he died nor how his letters to the seven churches made it off the island and into their hands. All such considerations at this point must be left up to the dramatists. It is for us here only to study and know the meaning of the message itself.

Before getting into the prophecies of the future, the present time is taken up as Jesus manifests himself to his disciple, John, and instructs him to write all that he is about to be shown . Interesting to note that, at first, John does not recognize Jesus for who he is. Interesting because the same thing also happened at the time of the resurrection, only days after the crucifixion. At that time, Jesus, displaying a genuine sense of humor, addressed his grieving and distraught disciples in the same way as he had done in the very beginning, by telling them to cast their fishing nets in a certain manner. By this, we can perhaps take some measure of appreciation as to just how the business of resurrection takes its form.

Rudolf Hess and his successor Martin Bormann

Once more, the description of the encounter reads unmistakably like what we today would call a "Close Encounter of the Third Kind" and I am convinced that is exactly what it was. You can read the details of it yourself in Revelation, the First Chapter.

Then come the messages to each of the seven churches "which are in Asia". This is all very immediate and practical business and rings so familiar to anyone who has ever worked and fought for truth in a world governed by the power of lies that no doubt at all is left that the struggle is one and the same and remains on-going. However, minus some historic insight, I know that the strange words will convey little meaning to the fresh reader.

"False apostles" are taken up initially. "...them that say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars." Revelation, 2:2. Those who are "joiners" and who habitually attach themselves to "radical" causes in attempt to compensate for some inner, personal deficiency. Invariably, they will want to influence and control doctrine and activity for purposes of their own ego. This by itself indicates they have no real idea of what the higher purpose is and, therefore, are prone to creating internal conflicts and, especially, of turning into rats or agents provocateur, serving the power of the enemy state authorities.

"Losing your first love" comes next. This refers to the thrill and excitement – the magic – of idealism found in a new and worthy cause, just like the experience of young love. The most wonderful times of my own life were those first few years with the movement when absolutely anything seemed possible. However, this priceless spirit can be ruined by the effects of just what was described above: Rotten apples in the barrel, perhaps having even penetrated to positions of leadership where maximum damage can be done.

"Nicolaitanes" are mentioned twice. This would refer to the body of those who seek to disrupt or otherwise turn the church from its proper content and aim. In the present time we have been plagued by those who insist that the unvarnished truth is just too hot to handle and so a more watered-down version must be promulgated and fed to the masses. Problem is, they have never fared any better than those who never varied from the true path. They merely served to split the effort.

Next, "I know the blasphemy (or "slander" in some translations) of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan." Revelation, 2:9: This too is repeated in Chapter Three, Verse 9.

Revelation, 2:10, reads this way, "Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."

Revelation, 2:13, goes on, "I know thy works, and where thy dwellest, even where Satan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth."

The language and references of the preceding three paragraphs ought to seriously pique the interest of anyone, even the most unaccustomed to Bible scholarship. Certainly everyone has heard of the Devil. We have already discussed the nature and role of myths and fables. The Devil, or Satan, is an allegory for something very real. It surely would behoove anyone to learn his working identity.

First, it is only the so-called "powers that be" that can affect official persecutions and imprison people or movements. It was that way then and it's that way today. No "spooks" and no "ghosts" can do this. Someone in recent decades invented the term "plausible excuse" and it will always be just this – a pretext, some legalism – under which state forces act. In reality, it will always be that the state – something then and now which is the physical tool of Satan – will use its power of media and all else to "criminalize" its opponents in order to maintain its deception of the old "Good Guy, Bad Guy" ploy so as to get the duped masses to go along enthusiastically with what, in reality, are religious persecutions.

In short, the object is to keep the struggle to the level of "authority" versus "crime" in the eyes of the masses and never let it slip that, in truth, it is the eternal struggle between God and Satan. Needless to say, Satan is ever the "Prince of This World" as well as the "Father of Lies".

The "crime", in the eyes of Satan and the hired tools which serve him, is the very real threat posed by even one tiny ray of light penetrating anywhere in a total void of darkness. That is, any tiny fraction of truth in a world dominated by lies. In reaction to this, they will become exactly what they are. We'll shortly go on to dissect exactly what this truth is that they perceive to be so dangerous to them.

Hermann Goering's corpse, October 15th, 1946

In other essays I have outlined in painstaking detail, literally chapter and verse, what Jews are. So now I'll cover that same ground as quickly as I can for the sake of clarity here.

To quote John, "...those that say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan". Today, all those that say they are Jews are of this synagogue of Satan. In John's day, it was not so. All those of any of the Twelve Tribes who cared to recall their roots considered themselves "Jews". John and practically all of the apostles were Galileans, which we know meant that they were of the Tribe of Benjamin. And Benjamin was the Galileans, the very last of the Tribes to leave the Holy Land in 66 A.D. What then was left behind?

Edom was what was left. Racial aliens, whom God had cursed early in the Bible and had even commanded Israel to exterminate in order to forestall all the many sorrows he knew would follow should they fail in this task. In some cases, the Israelites assimilated these conquered peoples – Canaanites in the Bible – into their own society and religion. In other cases, after the Israelites themselves had become the conquered and had been deported, more of these same aliens were brought into the newly emptied lands whereupon they converted to the Hebrew Temple – and became "Jews" much as any Third World type might become a "naturalized citizen" of America or even a converted "Christian".

This was what King Herod was who slaughtered every male infant in and around Bethlehem in frantic attempt to eliminate the Messiah and prevent the prophecy of Israel from becoming fulfilled. This was the Sanhedrin which conspired and finally was able to have Jesus crucified. These – happily – were also the ones who took the brunt of the Roman assault in 70 A.D.

And it was to these that John referred when he said to the church at Pergamos, "...and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is:" This major city was a center for Jewish financial control at the time and had been from where they had so upset the Romans by their attempts to monopolize the economy of the empire that the Romans, in return, levelled Jerusalem and, later, forcibly scattered the remaining Jews throughout the realm in what became known as the Diaspora.

Satan had taken human form there in Israel in the centuries before Christ. Now God had also taken on mortal form by which to carry the fight to its finish. By demonstrating through his person that the familiar weapons of lies and murder were to be of no permanent avail, he showed how the ultimate outcome would be. However, it is made abundantly clear that it would be a most severe test for those few in the service of God, against the power of the world.

"To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life which is in the midst of the paradise of God." Revelation, 2:7. This means, one, that the individual would have to owe to each one of his ancestors his purity of blood and, two, that he himself would have to fully live up to it by his awareness and by his actions. Each such individual held the heaviest of responsibilities. "But that which ye have already hold fast till I come." Revelation, 2:25.

Next, reference is made to a tale of Israel from out of the Old Testament, "But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumblingblock before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication." Revelation, 2:14.

This recounts an attempt to get the Israelites to indulge in wholesale miscegenation with the people of the Midianites and Moabites and thus destroy themselves through bastardized offspring. Numbers, 22, 33 and 24.

At the end of this tale, Moses orders that all who are found to be involved in this activity should be beheaded and their severed heads be placed on display as a warning to the rest.

As a climax, one Israelite brought a Midianite woman into the presence of Moses, perhaps to show him that she was, after all, a "good person" with a "nice personality".

"And when Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose up from among the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand;"

"And he went after the man of Israel into the tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman through her belly. So the plague was stayed from the children of Israel." Numbers, 25: 7 and 8.

Previously I had mentioned the Satanic technique of "criminalizing" that which is a matter of truth, or of life and death for a people. Here, in the case of Phinehas, we have the perfect example of what today would be classed as a "hate crime" by the Satanic dictatorship we are living under.

Next, from Chapter Two, Verse 17, "He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone of a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it."

The words "hidden" and "new" I personally am convinced refer to the appearance, toward the very end, that is, where we are today, of a philosophy and a worldview that would, for the first time ever, spell out the meaning of cosmic truth in the most practical of terms, incapable of being twisted or confused, but only of being "blasphemed" by the Satanic masters of the world, even as it stands for the purified and distilled Word of God.

And, as I believe I succeeded in demonstrating in my essay entitled, "The Theocrat", I also am convinced that that worldview was and is the National Socialism as codified and then put into successful practice by Adolf Hitler in Germany until it was snuffed out by the combined military weight of the rest of the world which was still under Satanic control.

Who is more blasphemed or criminalized in the world today than Adolf Hitler? Who is hated more by the Satanic masters of the governments of the world and their media mouthpieces than Hitler? They have most of the rest falling in line with their own deception and cursing and hating the very man who represents salvation as much as did Jesus Christ himself.

Now, probably, you have a direct insight as to the evil and the insanity of those times in which Jesus and the apostles lived. Curse your Savior? "Never!" you say?

Again from out of the Old Testament, John next mentions Jezebel. This was a woman who attached herself to the king of Israel, Ahab, and who, by this influence, introduced alien ways into the national life. Jezebel is given as a Zidonian which, according to Biblical genealogy, is a person of Hamitic – partially Negroid – descent. One more Canaanite, in other words. For our purposes, a racial Jewess.

The church in Thyatira was specifically warned against allowing such infiltration to occur within its ranks.

The often mentioned "thief in the night" comes next. This is the strongest indicator that the return of God – or of our fathers from space – will be sudden and will catch most off guard, totally unawares. Vigilance, it would seem, is the only key.

Revelation, Chapter Three, Verse 12, reads like this, "Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name."

Besides reiterating this "new name" that was to be and which is never revealed in the Bible, this verse is the first to mention "New Jerusalem". There will be much more on this later. But for now, ask yourself: A city coming down from out of heaven?

Verses 15 and 16, "I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot."

"So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth."

The comfortable and complacent can't be expected to be on fire with the truth nor are they likely to risk everything by effectively opposing a system which has been good to them with material rewards. It'll always be either "fish or cut bait". Conversely, my old comrade, Joseph Tommasi, once said in regard to political agitation that it was fine to be either hated or loved but that it was political death when no one gave a damn.

Verse 19, "As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent."

Whites only are of God. Only they are heirs to his covenant. Only they are subject to his laws. Only they can break his laws. Tragedies and disasters come only as the just answer to transgressions on the part of the Whites. They bring down the suffering on themselves. Chastisement is meant as correction but we can see today that it is having no effect. It is for that reason also that the return of the Creator is of urgent necessity.

Apparently, John is taken up within this New Jerusalem for a look around and in Chapter Four gives the best description as he can of the control room of a giant spaceship.

Chapter Five continues as preparations are made to unveil to him the course of the rest of the future of Whites upon the earth. Only Jesus himself – the "Lion of Judah" – has the power to do this.

Joseph Tommasi

From Verses 9 and 10, "And they sang a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation;"

"And hast made us unto our God kings and the priests: and we shall reign on the earth."

There was just laid out, in the proverbial nutshell, the future.

The Dark Ages

The five hundred years just past and the five hundred years to come – centered around the time of the apostles immediately following the death of Jesus, quite literally as we enter that time called Anno Domini or Year of Our Lord – involve the movements of those bands of people referred to by some as "The Lost Tribes of Israel" and by others as "The Barbarians".

I have found the Bible literally loaded with "tricks". Either these were placed there to deliberately confound the people or they were done in order to insure the Satanic power that would come to rule the world at the end wouldn't feel so threatened by it that it would be suppressed wholesale, making the chances of its real message being discovered by some that much more remote. The nature of these very same "tricks" – when uncovered, as I try to do in these essays – being to reveal the truth of the matter persuades me that the latter case is the actual one.

After all, look at the message the way it stands: Someone knew the future. Besides using language only those with a little background could hope to make out, why would it be out of the question to render the construction of the book itself as one more coded safety?

That five-hundred-year gap between the end of the Old Testament and the beginning of the New Testament could either have been left to deceive and confuse modern readers, or it might have been done to serve as the biggest single exclamation point, or anomaly, in the entire Bible. An irregularity so great as to shout to all but the brain-dead: This is important but you must look elsewhere!

We have the books that record what went on in the dying Holy Land during those centuries. Collectively they are called the Apocrypha. They record nothing but an agonizingly slow spiral downward toward oblivion. The stark reality is that Israel was gone from there and, with it, the focus of the prophecies and the destiny of God's people. We need to know where Israel now was at the time of John's writing so that we may truly be able to pick up the narrative. Not only that but also so that we may be able to corroborate it with all that we know of our own past dating from the time of Christ and up to the present day.

Remember, as with the "disappearance" of Dan, as far as the Biblical chroniclers were concerned, if it didn't take place there, in and around Palestine, it wasn't worthy of being included in the annals of "Israel". But it was even then a big and wide world. And remember always that "Israel" is a people and not a place.

There is somewhat of a problem with exact chronology from this point as the spectre of the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse comes next, with Chapter Six.

Of course this is all symbolic but it is symbolic of things very real and specific. First, the white horse and its rider: These are the Christian conversions which are just now beginning as a trickle but will soon take the form of a veritable dam-burst in the centuries to come in Europe – where the "Lost Tribes" now are.

Why is this important? So many today who have had all faith and all hope deadened may ask: Isn't one belief as good as another? And: What about all the bloody, forcible "conversions" in the cases of some of the more unwilling of the pagan tribes? Good questions.

First of all, this isn't a matter of "belief". It is a matter of knowing the vital truth – historic and factual. A people who doesn't know themselves or their past can't possibly expect much of a future. This situation, by the way, is the very one in which Whites today find themselves and is why they are in the sad and abominable shape they are in. And, note well, that the powers which be have at the top of their list of priorities to keep it that way. Secondly, most conversions among the pagans were quite happy and willing – simply because the truth was easily recognized and the correctness of the creed itself was eminently manifest. There was plenty of blood in the Old Testament, in-fighting between the Tribes themselves, because, just as God had observed sadly of his Israelites, they were a people of "hard hearts, stiff necks and brows of solid brass".

Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse
By Albrecht Durer

Remember again, it was the decadence of the people in the first place which let the standards of the belief system slip to the point where they were dominated by racial aliens and carrying on even worse than those aliens whom they had dispossessed from the land. Paganism was part of this process – except that now at least they were free of the spoiling influence of racial and cultural strangers. It was time to reintroduce them to their God. I have come to refer to these people here today, with their tattoos and piercings, etc., as "neo-pagans."

The red horse and its rider signify war, of course. Little else – save famine and pestilence – occurred in Europe for the coming age. Without the unifying effect and awareness of the new Christianity, it is highly doubtful that the struggling Tribes could have – just barely – survived the massive and repeated invasions of Europe carried out from Asia and Africa. More on these later.

The black horse. I take this as a very gradual return of order and society as the Bible itself refers to such things as scales and measures.

The pale horse. Death. The plagues of Europe in the Middle Ages are still legendary. "The fourth part of the earth." This corresponds well to the toll taken by the plague but, of course, it only applies to Europe, to Israel in Europe, to Whites, to whom the prophecies apply only.

These are but the first four of a total of seven seals. The fifth seal deals with all the many who have died as martyrs for the cause of truth. Their collective voice is crying out for vengeance against a world where – even then – it looks like evil will have its way regardless and go on to get away with it. There are more martyrs to be added to the total number before eternal justice comes directly into play. This certainly goes on today and can be expected to intensify dramatically.

The sixth seal speaks of a terrific natural and cosmic disaster. Most people feel this event remains in earth's future and, indeed, something like it may well occur in the years to come. However, some scholars now believe that the "Dark Ages" weren't called dark just because of a general breakdown in learning and discovery. There now has been uncovered evidence that a meteorite did strike the earth at some location at about the time of the fall of the Roman Empire and that a cosmic winter was the result. Records from the period are notoriously poor.

Christian Conversion Symbolized by Saint Eustace
By Albrecht Durer

Chapter Seven has the first mention of the 144,000 who'll be "redeemed from the earth". This will disappoint many who today like to fancy themselves among that number because they happen to belong to some modern-day Judeo-Christian sect or another. The event is already well in antiquity.

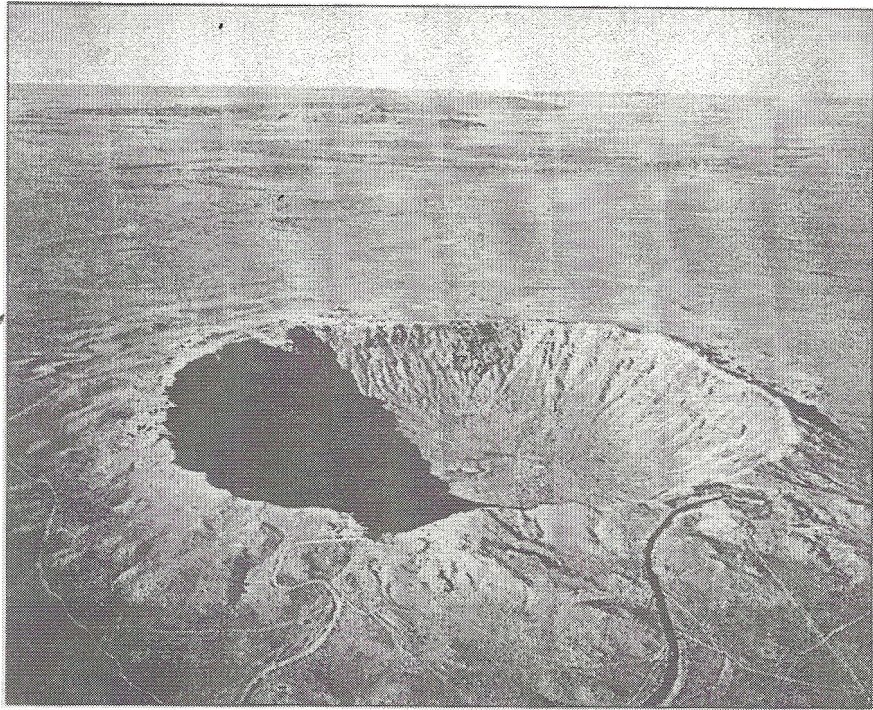

However, note well that only twelve thousand of each of the Twelve Tribes of Israel will be thus redeemed. How could such a thing possibly be if the Tribes were lost? I assure you, John, Paul, and everybody who knew anything at the time were aware of exactly who and where they were. Otherwise, why bother? Why specify only Israel? Do not answer with today's Judeo-Christian garbage of "spiritual Israel". That is indicative of the sense of superstitious nonsense which today's Church revolves around. It is illogical at best. It is a big part of the reason why the Church is no longer of any use but has devolved into a tool of Satan himself.

No. The word was gotten into Europe where the Whites were now making their home. White Europe was to become Christendom, no place else. Minus this White mass migration, there'd be no Christendom and no Europe today. Not to mention no America and no United States. No Western Civilization. The "Third World" would be the only world and those horrendous conditions outlined in Revelation would remain as the permanent state of affairs.

Following such a severe test, there would arise a general period of peace and plenty in what loosely is known as Western Europe. Could the 144,000 represent those nobles of each one of the Tribes who would go on to not only lead the modern states of Europe but to lead the Church as well? In Spain they were known as the "blue-bloods", meaning that their lineage had remained free from racial taint and their skin so white that the blue blood vessels could be seen underneath.

To go even further with this there is the tradition in certain circles which has it that Jesus had three children with Mary Magdalene and that the 144,000 were and are none other than his own direct offspring.

Of course this on its surface may sound at least as "crazy" as the straight-faced assertion of the Jehovah's Witnesses that only members of the Witnesses were going to be even eligible to be chosen as part of the 144,000 on the basis of their "merits" or their "scorecard".

Meteor Crater
Arizona

However, there is somewhat more to back up the descendants of Jesus as the 144,000 than mere, contrived wishful thinking.

Some put forward the argument that no rabbi, then or now, could be unmarried. And Jesus certainly was known as "teacher", "master", or "rabbi". Could the following verses taken from the Gospel of St. John, Chapter Two, actually be describing the wedding of Jesus and Mary Magdalene?

"And the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was there:"

"And both Jesus was called, and his disciples, to the marriage."

"And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jesus saith unto him, They have no wine."

"Jesus saith unto her, Woman, what I have to do with thee? Mine hour is not yet come."

"His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it."

"And there were set there six waterpots of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece."

"Jesus saith unto them, Fill the waterpots with water. And they filled them up to the brim."

"And he saith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. And they bare it."

"When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was: (but the servants which drew the water knew;) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom,"

"And saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse; but thou hast kept the good wine until now."

"This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested forth his glory; and his disciples believed on him."

Obviously this was at least a very great occasion, directly relevant to Jesus himself, his mother Mary, and his twelve disciples. Was it that of a close friend or family member? The host and the bridegroom are alluded to but not named. But it is made clear that it is upon Jesus to provide the guests with wine and that is the duty of the bridegroom. Indeed, the host is seen to call over to the bridegroom (the provider of the wine) and both congratulate and chide him for holding back the best for last.

This would hardly be the first or last instance of the authors of the Bible pulling a "fast one" on the careless reader. Jesus was a married man from this point.

This was taken from Verses 1 through 11 and that final verse points out for us that here was also the very start of the miracles Jesus would perform in his short, three-year career. Meaning, of course, that most of the three years still lay ahead. Time enough to begin a family.

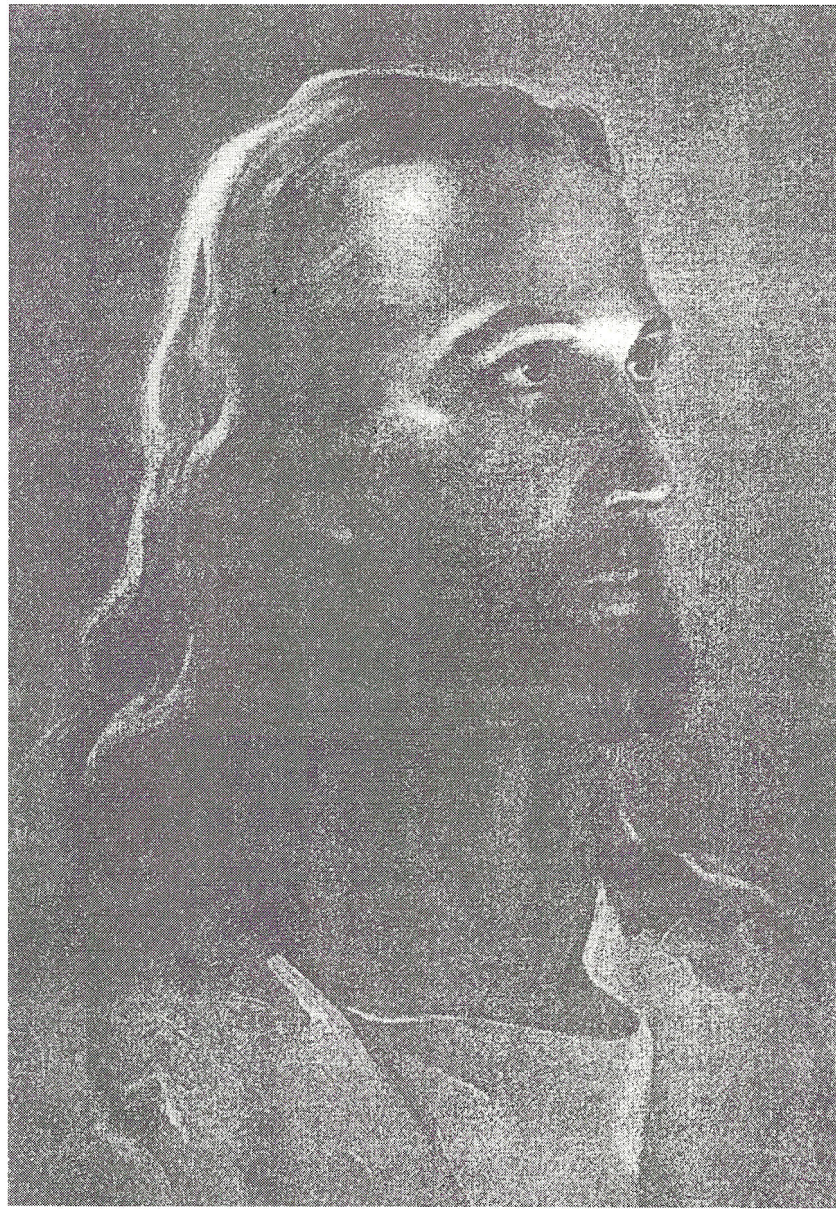

Throughout this same three years things were extremely touch-and-go with regard to what might be expected from the racial Jews who were in the majority but who were yet afraid to act too openly. All of that broke wide open once they were able to have Jesus legally lynched by the duped Romans. Now the Jews took off the gloves and the situation resembled that of Germany immediately after its collapse in 1945. The Jews were able to persecute and kill their enemies with impunity.

Not to South America as the National Socialist Germans who were able to escape made their way but to Europe which was still largely frontier territory did the earliest Christian refugees go. The same tradition has Mary, the mother of Jesus, his wife, Mary Magdalene and their children ending their days in France.

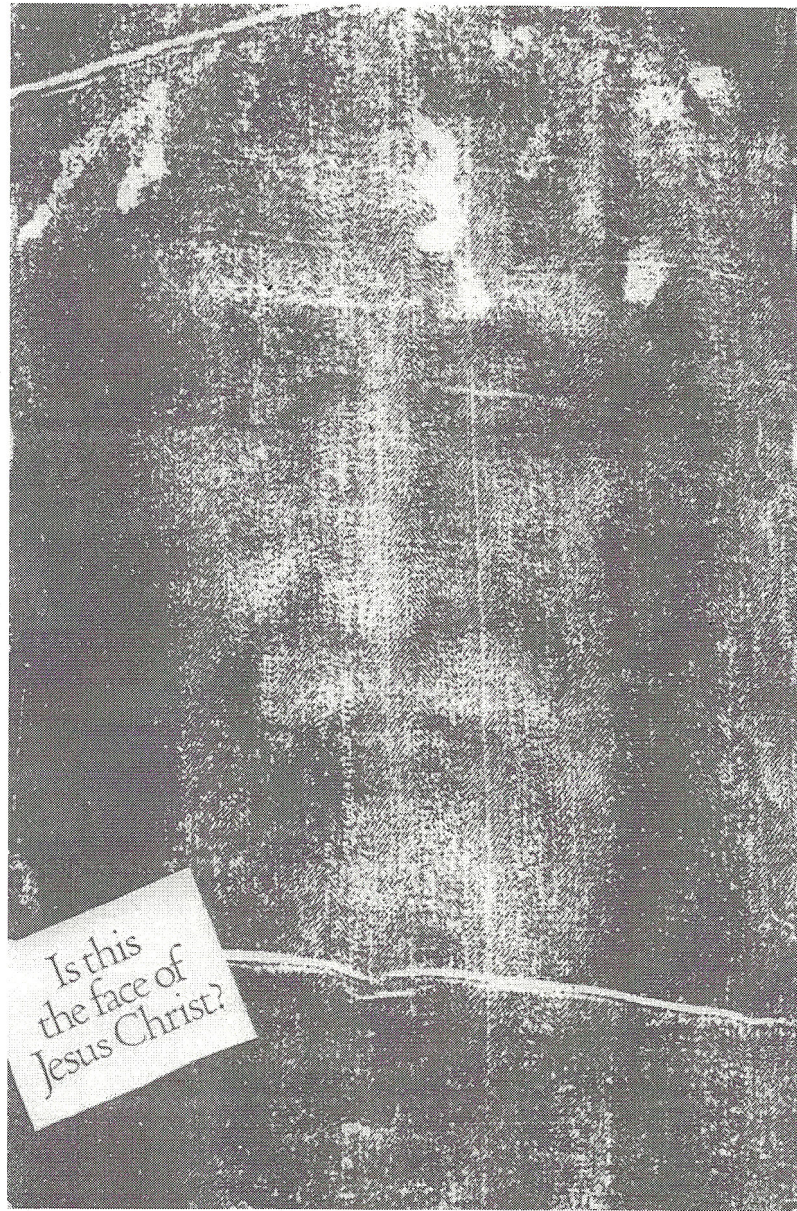

Noah had three sons and look what that led to! Perhaps someone could do us all the favor of checking the math on how three individuals might multiply themselves over the span of a thousand years. For it was about the year 1000 A.D. that the Thousand Years of Christ began.

It is well recorded in Westminster Abbey that the British Royal House can trace its line back to King David who, as we know, was in the line of Jesus. And it is commonly known that most, if not all, of Europe's royal houses are related in some way with Britain's Queen Victoria having been referred to as "The Grandmother of Europe".

Just as telling is the horrifying fact that these same crowned heads – indeed any and all members of this very literal blood nobility – have been the targets and the victims of every communistic upheaval in the Christian world from the French Revolution to the Russian Revolution. Racial Jews will invade and poison with their own blood wherever possible. Elsewhere they will depose the Christian monarchy and replace it with a "republic" more pliable and "democratic". When holding all of the aces, however, they much prefer wholesale murder.

At this point I must state that I am no apologist for those who in the past or the present have so badly dropped the ball entrusted to them in this manner, thus leaving their respective nations in the lurch and at the mercy of their sworn enemies. But I should add also that, were this whole scheme infallible, then there would be no need for a stated end of Christ's Thousand Years much less that of an Apocalypse. People are fallible.

Chronological disorder, perhaps, or the seventh seal itself might represent the meteorite which struck the earth only after what may have been a comet shower previously, as mentioned in Chapter Six. From the description in Verses 7 through 13, this was "the big one" which so affected the environment of the planet, landing probably in the ocean.

Here is mentioned the name of the "star" or meteorite: "Wormwood". Apart from the rest of the conflagration, there is perpetual night. Pretty clear to me. Again, sorry for those who believe the nuclear disaster at Chernobyl is that which is referred to in Verse 11, even if, as they claim, Chernobyl is the Russian word for "Wormwood".

Chapter Eight begins in the midst of the devastation wreaked by the cataclysm from space. Now here is the "bottomless pit" and the "locusts". People today, who still insist on placing John's prophecies ahead of them, like to imagine this as referring to modern, high-tech weaponry, helicopters and the like. But it would seem much more likely to me that here we have the invasion of Europe by the Huns about the year 451 A.D.

From Verse 4, "And it was commanded them that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree; but only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads."

Verse 7, "And the shape of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle; and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, and their faces were as the faces of men."

Verse 8, "And they had hair as the hair of women, and their teeth were as the teeth of lions."

Verse 9, "And they had breastplates, as it were breastplates of iron; and the sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle."

Knighthood in Judaised Britain

Sir Roger de Coverley is introduced to his heir.
Nurse: Don't he take after his mother, Sir Roger?

Why could not this be exactly as John describes it? Here was a man of ancient times, aloft in a spacecraft and four hundred years into the future. The spectacle would have indeed appeared as a field of locust. Verse 11, "And they had a king over them, which is the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Abaddon, but in the Greek tongue hath his name Apollyon."

Could the "bottomless pit" be the limitless steppes of Asia? Both "Abaddon" and "Apollyon" mean Destroyer in English. Could this be Attila the Hun who, in his own time, was known as the Scourge of God? The Huns themselves are described contemporaneously as being the most physically hideous – even if the most expert – of horsemen.

I find most compelling the sidelight to this that it was the defeat of the Burgundians – one of the Tribes under a "new name" – by the Huns which created the basis for the immortal Nibelungenlied, made so famous by Richard Wagner in the Nineteenth Century. History and myth... both alive!

Previously, in Chapter Five, Verse 11, there had been cited a specific number – astronomical for the time – of 100,000,000 angels. Now, in Chapter Nine, Verse 16, the figure of 200,000,000 horsemen is given. And here is a problem: An army like that today could be possible coming out of China, for example. But during the Middle Ages? How many were the hordes of Asia and Africa taken altogether in those days? A lot. Someone besides myself will have to attempt to supply the number.

Chapter Ten bodes of things shown to John which he is told not to reveal. What could it have been? I remain sure that, whatever it was, it has already been.

Verse 11 says again, "And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues and kings." Once more, this message was intended for a nascent Europe which was to be the vehicle for the prophecy of earth.

Some really potentially serious area for possible confusion enters next with Chapter El even when it says in Verse 2, "But the court which is without the temple leave out, and measure it not; for it is given unto the Gentiles; and the holy city shall they tread under the foot forty and two months."

Attila the Hun

Three and a half years in Jerusalem, that is if one is calculating by today's calendar. Now to the identity of these "Gentiles". Generally, for biblical purposes, a "Gentile" is someone "uncircumcised" or a member of "the nations". Both these refer to the other – indeed the most – Whites who were outside the shrinking sphere calling itself Israel. At the time of John, once again, they were the "Barbarians", so named by the Greeks because of the strange sound their speech made upon sophisticated ears.

There was, of course, the Abomination of Desolation as predicted by Christ wherein the Romans attacked and levelled the area of Jerusalem not many decades following his own death. Then, once more, around the Seventh Century when the Persians conquered the area from the Byzantines, capturing the cross of Christ in the process. (The Holy Land was subsequently retaken and the cross recaptured whereupon it was broken into splinters and scattered so that no infidel could ever hope to seize it again.)

As I cautioned at the beginning, things do tend to get somewhat out of chronological order, that is if we are to interpret the events described in Revelation alongside Medieval history the way we know it to have been. But it is the very last of the uprisings in Jerusalem against Rome, which began in 132 A.D. and lasted until 135 A.D., which best falls into the time frame of "forty and two months".

The interesting fact is that Jerusalem by this time was practically devoid of all White human material. Unlike the easily distracted mind of man, God would surely know that a geographic location, minus its last trace of "Israel", would bear no importance whatsoever. Unless it was the spot itself. The area of Mount Zion, where the city of Jerusalem was located, had held religious significance even before the coming of the Israelites, extending far back into prehistoric times. There are those modern theorists who believe it to have been a spaceport in the most distant antiquity.

The city traded hands repeatedly between Romans, Byzantines, Persians, Arabs and Turks before it was retaken for the final time by Whites at the time of the First Crusade in 1099 A.D. That Kingdom of Jerusalem lasted but a century and the place has been a non-white settlement ever since.

Who were the prophets mentioned in Verse 3? No one I am aware of within Christendom. There was Mohammad who lived from 570 to 632, who wrote the Koran and gave birth to Islam. He claimed to be a prophet in the Biblical line, having descended from Abraham through his first son, Ishmael, whose mother had been the slave woman, Hagar. Though Ishmael did not inherit God's covenant – that going to the pure-blooded Isaac – Hagar was assured by an angel that Ishmael would go on to found a mighty nation of his own: The Arabs.

Islam's appeal was and remains toward the colored races of the earth. And, according to legend, Mohammad supposedly was seen ascending to heaven astride his horse.

Chapter Eleven, Verse 12, "And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud; and their enemies beheld them." Equally fascinating is that, situated in the mosque at Mecca, the holiest center for Islam, is what is called the "Kaba". Supposedly, this is a black meteorite.

But who could have been the second prophet?

Chronology out of sync again: At the time of the First Crusade, the Muslim leader was Mahomet. Here is how Christendom – or White Europe – viewed the people who were the Muslims and who now stood on the former Holy Land, in the words of Pope Urban II speaking in 1095 –

"What a dishonor it would be for us if this infidel race, so justly scorned, which has sunk from the dignity of man and is a vile slave of the devil, should defeat the chosen people of Almighty God."

Some might be surprised to learn that nowhere in Revelation is there any mention given to the Anti-Christ. It is, however, John who does first introduce the Anti-Christ in his First and Second Epistles –

"Little children, it is the last time: and as ye have heard that antichrist shall come, even now are there many antichrists; whereby we know that it is the last time." First John, 2:18.

"Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist, that denieth the Father and the Son." First John, 2:22.

"And every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God: and this is that spirit of antichrist, whereof ye have heard that it should come; and even now already is it in the world." First John, 4:3.

The Prophet Mohammed

"For many deceivers are entered into the world, who confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist." Second John, Verse 7.

According to these words then, there is to be no "Anti-Christ" at the very end in the form of some super-dictator over all the earth. Indeed, a far more intelligent interpretation of this would be that the whole world SYSTEM and those which man it are anti-christ. A great game of the World Enemy is to get people on guard and looking for something that they'll never see, because it doesn't exist. From the Red Devil to the Anti-Christ. All of it allegorical. Find the corresponding reality for the Biblical allegory and THEN you may stand a chance of unravelling the mystery to all this.

But it was the person of Mahomet who initially was identified as THE "Anti-Christ".

Islam, besides being a movement among non-whites, and even while granting to Jesus the status of a true prophet, does deny that he is Christ. Naturally it would. Not being ignorant of the content and meaning of the Bible, they knew that if Jesus were the Savior, it was only insofar as Whites were concerned. Race hate: And not coming from our direction but being directed at us.

Chapter Eleven, Verse 15, "And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever."

Here, to me, obviously, are the Christian conversions across Western Europe during the Middle Ages. This is no small feat of prophecy for a man like John – in his unenviable position – in the world of 95 A.D. By all appearances and likelihoods, this would not have been a good wager to take on. And yet, there it stood, an accomplished fact for the most part by the end of the first millennium after Christ.

Chapter Twelve again seems to go outside of sync with history as we know its progression. Unmistakable reference is made to the birth of Jesus as well as earthly, Satanic opposition to his rule.

Verse 4, referring to the "great red dragon", also from out of heaven. "And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for to devour her child as soon as it was born."

Pope Urban II

This recalls the Herodian infanticide, the Slaughter of the Innocents, on the part of the Edomite – racially Jewish – usurpers of the throne of David (Edom, whose color, incidentally, is red) as they attempted to murder the baby Jesus in order to forestall the prophecy of the Messiah as it concerned only White Israel.

Verse 6 refers to the flight into Egypt and to safety until the immediate danger was past. The period of time given as having been spent there by Jesus and his family is "two thousand, two hundred and threescore days." That is just over six years. In the Gospel of Matthew, no exact time is given for the stay in Egypt, only that they might return to Israel after Herod was dead.

Verses 7, 8 and 9, "And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels,"

"And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven."

"And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him."

Verse 12, "Therefore rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabitants of the earth and of the sea! For the devil has come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time."

Clearly, this war in heaven which ended with Satan and his angels being cast to earth took place before the birth of Christ.

Verse 17, "And the dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ."

Expanding off of the drama of the Nativity, here not only would be represented the persecutions of the early Christians but, on a broader scale, the physical assaults against the entire White race – now fully ensconced in Europe and fully embracing Christianity – from Arabs, Huns, Turks, Moors and Mongols from about 450 until about 1530. We very nearly did not survive.

However, the power which tried to kill the infant Jesus and the same one which today "deceives the whole world" is represented by racial Jews. This is the primary enemy which dwells in our very midst, clouding our collective consciousness and sapping our will to survive. If a living, flesh-and-blood corollary to the Satan allegory exists, it can only be the Jews.

Revisiting Revelation

The Fall of Lucifer

Remember that there were no "Jews", as such, anywhere in existence until after the creation of the United Kingdom of Israel during the second millennium before Christ. It was by mingling Israelite blood with alien, Canaanite tribes which God had commanded be wiped out, and by their taking over the Hebrew Temple, that "Jews" were created out of physical bastardization, the very act of mortal sin. They are our own LIVING sins.

What else could be represented by Satan and his angels cast down to earth just ahead of the appearance of Christ?

Chapter Thirteen almost certainly must deal with the Roman Empire in its decline. Once more, a disjointed recollection of actual history.

In 212 A.D., the Emperor Caracalla, himself reputedly of African parentage, granted citizenship to all inhabitants of Rome. But long before this, Rome had gone from being merely pagan and all the way over into a bastard amalgamation of different races. The pitiful and disgusting racial mess even today found around the area of the Mediterranean is only the remains of what had gotten its foothold by the time of John.

But – exactly as with the position the United States finds itself in today – while enough brains, willpower and outward strength and prosperity from times past remained, Rome, under these circumstances had become the Beast.

Even though Rome eventually converted to Christianity, the genetic damage had already been done and was irreversible. Blood – not belief – is what counts not only with God but with the outcome of all human affairs. God, after all, is the author of genetics and what does the law of genetic codes know or care about such an abstract as "belief"?

Pure blood was outside of the Empire, to the north, in the person of the Varangians, the Angles, the Jutes, the Saxons, Burgundians, Lombards, Goths, Visigoths, Vandals, Franks, Gauls, Frisians, Alamans and the rest of the so-called "Barbarians". Since about the time of John they had been settling in Europe and, by the Fifth Century, they were prepared to make their move.

Though no modern history book that I've ever been able to find gives any mention as to the origin, or starting place, of these people – literally ourselves – who would take over and make history itself from that point onward – literally acting out prophecy or destiny – they do say that none among these tribes numbered more than one hundred thousand. An interesting figure that fits well within the conservatively projected "remnant" of the Lost Tribes of Israel.

In 410 A.D., the Visigoths sacked Rome itself and it was done. The Visigoths in reality were the Tribe of Benjamin which had been the last ones out of the Holy Land in 66 A.D., just ahead of the Roman devastation. They had also been the Galileans which had provided safety for the young Jesus and had supplied him with all of his apostles later on. Now they had their vengeance for Jerusalem.

It becomes more interesting with Verse 11 when it says, "And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon." The only thing here which is clearly unmistakable is the mention of a third Beast.

Could this be a fast-forward into the future, to the present time and place?

There's really nothing on earth in the memory of man to compare with the Roman Empire except the United States. Something so all-powerful in its own era, something that began so wonderfully and turned so utterly rotten and vile. And this vileness – supported by the continuing military and economic irresistibility – spreads its poison over the face of the whole earth.

Verse 13, "And he doeth great wonders, so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men."

Verse 14, "And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by the sword, and did live."

"Fire from heaven" and "miracles"? Technology far below the present-day level would have seemed "miraculous" to anyone of the year 95 A.D. All of that is relative, I suppose, but it would seem to place us solidly within the Twentieth Century.

The following most famous passages from Revelation, Chapter Thirteen, Verses 15 through 18, place us in the present moment of time –

"And he had power to give life unto the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak, and cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast should be killed."

"And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads."

"And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name."

"Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six."

What is clearly suggested here to me is more of the ultra-high-tech methods of the control of the many by the very select few. I think we even get a glimpse of television, the master-stroke of the thought-control set. And certainly, money and economics are the key. It goes way beyond Orwell and "Big Brother" and is guaranteed to get worse before it ends.

Then there is the matter of all the endless guesswork as to just what the meaning of "666" is. Again, most people today are of the belief that this identifies some super-dictator, some personification of the "Anti-Christ" which is yet to appear. This is all patently false but, naturally, it would be encouraged by the World Enemy for the simple reason that it keeps people lost.

One of the biggest of all the "tricks" that were put in the Bible by its framers is "666". When first I seriously undertook to either debunk or validate the Bible on my own and carefully read that verse which begins with, "Here is wisdom." I knew right away that John was saying, "Now get this." Furthermore, by the wording, I knew that the answer was very obvious and contained there in the book. But a lot of digging would first have to be done in order to find it.

That was in the spring and summer of 1995. It wasn't until the summer of 1999 that I found it. After many run-throughs with the Bible – many Bibles – and many annotations, many articles and essays, as I was in the midst of some research for what turned out to be my final major article on the Bible, it came over me that I was onto something.

Combining two of the several literary phenomena found in the Bible – by those with "understanding" – I suddenly realized that I was in the midst of "counting the number of the beast". No Egyptologist who ever uncovered a lost tomb laden with treasure ever experienced more of a thrill of anticipation as I continued the count, confident of where it would lead me.

What was I counting?

The first phenomenon to take note of is in Second Kings, 16:6. This is where the word "Jew" first appears anywhere. No introduction, no explanation. Nothing. Only this new word in the context of what otherwise would be a "nothing" verse. The second phenomenon is the heavy repetition of the list of the accursed Canaanite tribes which God commands Israel to destroy and to not mix with.

The "count" is the exact number of times these tribes are mentioned and condemned before one arrives at the first appearance of "Jew". By that time in the Biblical chronology, the fatal damage has been done and the Israelite society has been so infected by this Canaanite presence – for the Israelites had failed to heed God's warning – that the entire mess now was a mass of "Jews". Three sixes are, of course, eighteen.

Here is the count itself –

- | | |
|-------------------------------|------------------------|
| 1. Genesis, 15:19; 20; and 21 | 10. Deuteronomy, 7:1 |
| 2. Exodus, 3:8 | 11. Deuteronomy, 20:17 |
| 3. Exodus, 3:17 | 12. Joshua, 3:10 |
| 4. Exodus, 13:5 | 13. Joshua, 9:1 |
| 5. Exodus, 23:23 | 14. Joshua, 11:3 |
| 6. Exodus, 23:28 | 15. Joshua, 12:8 |
| 7. Exodus, 33:2 | 16. Joshua, 24:11 |
| 8. Exodus, 34:11 | 17. Judges, 3:5 |
| 9. Numbers, 13:29 | 18. First Kings, 9:20 |

And then no more Canaanites before Second Kings, 16:6.

Detractors will attack this from several angles. First, that it is galloping paranoia on the part of a career "hater". Second, that the count is "off". Third, why hasn't some trained theologian come up with this before?

Well, in answer to all this, first, John's "666" isn't some out-of-left-field concoction, least of all one of my own. It does absolutely amount to the quiz at the end of the book to test whether you've comprehended what you've just read. It is the THEME of the entire Bible. Second, yes, I had to do some double-checking on the count because only certain groupings of these Canaanite tribes were sufficient to register in this count. Finally, I do find it incomprehensible that no one in the last two thousand years has stumbled onto this formula in exactly the way I did. I'm certain that they have. However, for reasons of expedience – that is, so as not to incur the wrath of the Jews themselves – they chose to sit on it instead.

But how dumb, really, can the masses upon masses of common people who profess to "study" the Bible be? Pretty abysmally stupid as it turns out, I'm afraid. But, again, I do recall why I was so turned off by the Church and the whole of Judeo-Christianity all my young life. Don't you?

Lest anyone doubt whether this warning against the presence of these racial Canaanite Jews within White society is indeed the whole theme of the Bible – both testaments – then they owe it to themselves to refer to each of the following –

Numbers, 33:55 and 56	Judges, 1:19 and 21
Deuteronomy, 7:2 through 7	Judges, 1:27 through 35
Deuteronomy, 20:16 and 18	Judges, 2:1 through 4
Deuteronomy, 23:2	Judges, 3:6 and 7
Joshua, 9:4 through 21	II Kings, 17:25 through 41
Joshua, 15:63	Ezra, 9:1 through 15
Joshua, 16:10	Nehemiah, 13:23 through 31
Joshua, 17:12 and 13	Isaiah, 62:2
Joshua, 23:7 through 13	Isaiah, 65:15
	Zechariah, 14:21

Now, I must point out here that in some more modern translations, the word "Canaanite" there in the final verse of Zechariah has been replaced with "merchant". Oops! It would look like there ARE those who know the score but who, unfortunately, would prefer to do Satan a favor and help him continue to hide his true identity.

Here, once again, comes mention of one hundred and forty-four thousand who will be redeemed from the earth. A different group from the first? Apparently not. It would seem as though the vision is scanning back over the Dark Ages one more time, this time picking up different aspects from the first description.

Chapter Fourteen, Verse 8, "And there followed another angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication."

Babylon, in Biblical symbology, stands for the enemy of Israel and the antithesis of Godliness by virtue, of its very multi-culturalism and multi-racialism. Everything is geared toward money, power and pleasure. The epitome of ugliness. Of course, by the time of John's writing, the actual Babylon had long since been destroyed and was lying under the mound in the Iraqi desert where archeologists found it only in the last century. By John's time, Babylon itself had become practically mythic.

And so, clearly, this reference is to Rome, the "new Babylon". And it is no stretch at all to apply the same label to any one of today's modern cities, starting ideally with New York. But the bigger meaning of it deals with the nature of the entire, modern world system.

Chapter Fourteen ends with the now proverbial "grapes of wrath" which are about to be pressed.

Chapter Fifteen has the 144,000 safely removed, "standing on a sea of glass mingled with fire" and seven plagues about to be unleashed upon the earth.

Chapter Sixteen has these plagues befalling those with the Mark of the Beast. This would, on its face, place these happenings future tense. What is described in Verses 2 through 21 could either have been caused by a meteorite striking earth, signaling the start of the Dark Ages, or, it could easily be seen again by us, as caused by another meteor strike or by a nuclear war.

Chapter Seventeen reprises the fall of the "Whore of Babylon" and this is most positively identified as Rome. "And here is the mind which hath wisdom. The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth." That was from Verse 9. The Seven Hills of Rome.

Verses 10 through 13 indicate straightforwardly that what we are witnessing is a recurrent social and historical theme: The rise and fall of empires all the way to the very end. The "Beast" is where each cycle always ends up... with the State as the enemy of God as it threatens the racial integrity of the White race.

What is indicated in Verse 16 is a general rebellion of client states, or subject peoples, possibly even Third Worlders, against the "Great Whore" – which, as far as we are today concerned, is the United States.

Chapter Eighteen covers the sudden and violent death of Babylon, "made desolate in one hour." For the most part a description of today's society and culture is painfully laid out, "...the habitation of devils"; "...the hold of every foul spirit"; "...a cage of every unclean and hateful bird."

"The wine of the wrath of her fornication"; "...the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies."

Verses 4, 5 and 6, "And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues."

"For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities." (Since having written this, the attacks on the World Trade Center took place.)

"Reward her even as she rewarded you, and double unto her double according to her works: in the cup which she hath filled fill to her double."

Then is described all the smugness, self-assurance and self-righteousness that is part and parcel of any rotten and complacent power elite: "But it can't happen here!"

Boundless material wealth is catalogued.

The sudden judgment might have come via overrunning by some new "Barbarians", it could have come as a result of some "miraculous" weapon, or it could even have come as the result of a natural disaster. (But it did occur through the employment of hijacked airliners.)

Verse 15, "The merchants of these things, which were made rich by her, shall stand afar off for the fear of her torment, weeping and wailing,"

Verse 18, "And cried when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, What city is like unto this great city!"

Verse 20, "Rejoice over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets; for God hath avenged you on her."

Few alive could – or would want to – comprehend this kind of enmity. The fact is that all of man's business and creation now has long since become nothing but an affront to God. Clean it up? Every move that is made is the wrong move, in the wrong direction, for the wrong reason. Man in search of his own Utopia. How many are even aware of the meaning of "Utopia"? It's something or someplace that doesn't exist. Balance this against the meaning of God's name – Yahweh – "I Am That I Am", and then realize that it all has been just a flight from reality. There is, naturally, a bill attached to this.

Verse 23, "And the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee; and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard no more at all in thee: for thy merchants were the great men of the earth; for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived."

I personally see a corollary here with today's mass, electronic media and with the enormous drug trafficking. The literal translation of "sorcery" has to do with narcotics. Not to mention everything – including certainly politicians – in the hands of high finance.

Verse 24, "And in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that were slain upon the earth."

Practically every war the United States has been involved in – certainly every war in the Twentieth Century – was for concerns of money. To crush the magnificent culture and sovereignty of Europe just so that a small clique of Jewish financiers could monopolize the earth. Cloaked, to be sure, in mighty-sounding platitudes of high idealism.

The very epitome of hypocrisy.

The Thousand Years

Chapter Nineteen has the return of the white horse and its rider. Verse 11, "...and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and righteousness he doth judge and make war."

Verse 12, "His eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns; and he had a name written, that no man knew, but he himself."

Verse 13, "And he was clothed with a vesture dipped in blood; and his name is called the Word of God."

If we are to follow the progression of historical events the way we know them to have been in the Middle Ages, we now may see the attempt to storm Europe and extinguish the White race in its last stronghold. Had this taken place, the whole matter of the Bible, Christ, etc., would have been rendered moot. However, these visions of John's had foreseen it all and knew that it would never come to pass. Largely because this word was already in Europe by the time the onslaught took place is the reason why it did not come to pass.

Islamic Moors took most of Spain by 715 A.D. and moved into France, only being stopped by Charles Martel at the battle of Poitiers in 732.

Avars attacked from the east at about the same time, of Turkish-Tartar origin.

The Mongols of Genghis Khan struck in 1241 and very nearly overran everything:

Genghis Kahn

By 1402, Turks were surging into Europe from the southeast. It was here when the churches of John all were overwhelmed and the White, Christian element killed or driven out.

Besides this, there was famine in the early 1300s as well as the Bubonic Plague, together which took the toll of nearly one-third of the total population.

Verse 19, "And I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies gathered together to make war against him that sat on the horse, and against his army."

The "Beast" always being the organized forces of that which is anti-White, each, in turn, were routed and turned back into the fastnesses of Asia and Africa through superhuman struggle and sacrifice and, in each instance, in the name of Jesus Christ. "Europe", even before it had had a chance to become Europe, was tightly compressed to an area no greater than Northern Italy, Central Germany and France. Britain and Scandinavia were the hinterland.

Verse 20, "And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he had deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone."

Back to the Mark of the Beast. This is potentially troublesome because it appears again in a time before the technology exists which could facilitate the scenario that is held so popular today: That of the "chip" or the "implant". Perhaps it instead signifies something altogether different that we have no idea of.

Chapter Twenty begins this way, "And I saw an angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand."

"And he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years,"

"And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that he must be loosed a little season."

Verses 4, 5 and 6 discuss this thousand-year period.

Mainly, a "first resurrection" is taken up. I won't even attempt to hazard a guess as to what that may imply.

However, I do know that with the final end having been made of the threat of colored conquest of Europe, with the famines and plagues now in the past, a new period was beginning which history knows as the Renaissance. Of course, this means "rebirth" or even "resurrection".

Revisiting Revelation

Rebirth of culture and science, music and art, national liberation and unification – self-awareness and self-confidence. The coming of the Age of Discovery and the Age of Conquest. The prophecies for Israel from out of the books of the prophets were coming true. For out of the states of Europe came other White states which did their own part in literally re-taking the whole planet and subjugating each of the colored races that had so recently menaced its very existence. Bound, quite literally, in chains of slavery.

And Satan himself? One odd account by a monk named Ralph Glaber of the Monastery of St. Leger, of Champeaux, about the year 1000, claims to provide a physical description of the Devil –

"I saw a small man, horrible to look at, rise up at the foot of my bed. As far as I could judge, he was of medium height, with a skinny neck, a thin face, quite black eyes, a rugged, furrowed forehead, pinched nostrils, prominent mouth, thick lips, a receding, very narrow chin, a goatee beard, hairy, tapering ears, bristly shaggy hair, teeth like those of a dog, a pointed skull, a swollen chest, a humped back, shaking thighs and dirty clothes."

Even as White Europe was gaining the upper hand against the hordes of colored invaders which had nearly had it beaten and extinguished, it was, with excellent cause, now looking inwardly to locate its enemy within.

Its own – our own – living sins had followed them, to infiltrate and penetrate amongst them. Following the Roman Diaspora of Judea after the First Century and the Turkish breakup of the Empire of the Khazars in the Ninth Century, these racial Jews had found their way into Europe and were beginning to work out their hatreds against Whites who had left them flat and alone in Palestine soon after the coming of Christ.

The Bible forbids usury, that is, the charging of high interest from a brother. Jews, not being our brothers, could do this however and, for this reason, were employed as money-handlers in the Europe of the Dark Ages. (Part of what made the Dark Ages so dark.) Having been placed in this capacity by our careless and greedy rulers, to tend to a matter deemed too filthy for White, Christian hands, Jews quickly realized its potential and soon had developed a stranglehold monopoly over our finances.

During the plagues which ravaged the population of Europe at these times, Jews were suspected of contaminating wells with corpses infected with the Bubonic sickness, or the Black Death, in order to kill more White Christians.

Jews had assisted the invading Moors in their occupation of Spain and had betrayed town after town in the east of Europe as the Mongols were sweeping toward the heart of the White sanctuary. It was then that the Jews themselves donned yellow stars – "marks" or "signs" – so as to be easily distinguishable from the rest of the people of those communities they were betraying.

After the crisis had passed, the Church required the Jews to maintain these marks, now as a warning to the peoples of Europe that here was an insidious danger in their midst that was not to be ignored. This measure was adopted by the Fourth Lateran Council of the Catholic Church in 1215.

The Jews were in decline in Europe by the year 1000 when the First Crusade took place. The following is taken from the "Annals of the Saxons" of that period –

"...and enemy of the human race did not hesitate to sow tares among the grain, to raise up false prophets, to mix false brothers and loose women in the army of Christ. By their hypocrisy, their lies and their impious suborning they perturbed the Lord's army... They thought it right to avenge Christ on the pagans and the Jews. That was why they killed 900 Jews in the town of Mainz, without sparing women or children... It was piteous to see the large and numerous heaps of corpses which were taken out of the town of Mainz on wagons."

And so the first pogroms were born.

About the time of the Second Crusade, the first accusation of Jewish Ritual Murder was raised in 1144. This involved William of Norwich. A Christian, White child would be abducted, his throat cut and the blood collected, then dried into powder and mixed into Jews' holiday bread. Most of the children who were victims in the well-established cases of this were subsequently canonized by the Catholic Church as saints.

Revisiting Revelation

Alan Greenspan
Federal Reserve Board Chairman

The first Jewish ghettos were established by the Council of Trent and their numbers were thus kept confined, concentrated so that their activities could no longer harm the surrounding White communities.

Finally, however, all of this was not enough and, one by one, the nations of Europe expelled their entire Jewish populations from out of their midst and back toward the East, toward Poland and Russia – the "bottomless pit" from whence first arose the armies of the Beast.

It's interesting to note that this re-conquest of the world by the Christian nations of Europe only reached its zenith by the start of the Twentieth Century. Likewise, the Turks, for example, weren't effectively cleared from European soil until the Nineteenth Century. Two of the most principle European states didn't achieve complete unity until the Nineteenth Century, Germany and Italy. And Jews weren't permitted to resettle in some areas of Europe until as late as the Eighteenth Century. This is all so very recent.

It invites one to hazard a guess as to just when this glorious phase of 1000 years began, and when it ended. Of course, the Judeo-Christians of today would have us believe that it is yet to occur but I think the information I'm presenting here has and will continue to demolish that idea. The Thousand Years of Christ are indeed all behind us now.

It's pretty obvious. Just as White conquest and unification in Europe was coming to a boiling point with the empire of Charlemagne, just as the age of the Vikings was dawning with their excursions to Iceland, Greenland and North America, with the entry into Britain of the last of the Twelve Tribes to join the rest in what in Hebrew means "Land of the Covenant" in 1066, with the First Crusade which retook for Whites their Holy Land and with the expulsions of the Jews: About the year 1000, oddly enough.

When did it end? That is easiest of all to pin-point: In 1945.

If a period of an entire millennium can be tossed off in Revelation, Chapter Twenty, with only a scant three verses, 4, 5 and 6, then it must come as no wonder that the event which would so sharply bring it to a close – the Second World War – might receive no mention at all.

By the Nineteenth Century, Jews of the world had regained their access to the workings of White government, finance and media. These societies were now once more in their hands. It had been so long and things had been going so well that the White nations had forgotten what a close call they'd had and how dearly their survival and success had cost them. They let the Jews return.

Verse 7, "And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison,"

"And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea."

Conspiracy and infiltration qualify as deception, most certainly. Direct lies on the part of Jewish owned and operated politicians and media, likewise, are without a doubt more forms of deception. Near the close of the Nineteenth Century, World Jewry codified its strategy to subjugate the earth at a meeting held in Switzerland. The assembled minutes of this meeting are collectively called "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion" and represent a monument to all that is dark and nefarious. Control would be systematically wrested away from the people and their sovereign states and gathered into the hands of Jews and their hired tools. All, of course, without the knowledge and consent of those directly involved. If this isn't the very definition of the world conspiracy, then I can't imagine what would be.

Now, certainly, when copies of this infernal manuscript reached the Court at Saint Petersburg in Russia, and also the British Museum, the Jews of the world began disclaiming it as a "forgery" and have kept this up ever since. But, as Henry Ford, Sr., remarked of them at the time, forgery or not, Jews have been rigorously applying its tenets throughout as though it were a blueprint. For my own part, I take it as one of the most breathtaking of all examples of Biblical prophecy in its very fulfillment. Satan at work. It's too much to be written off as "coincidence".

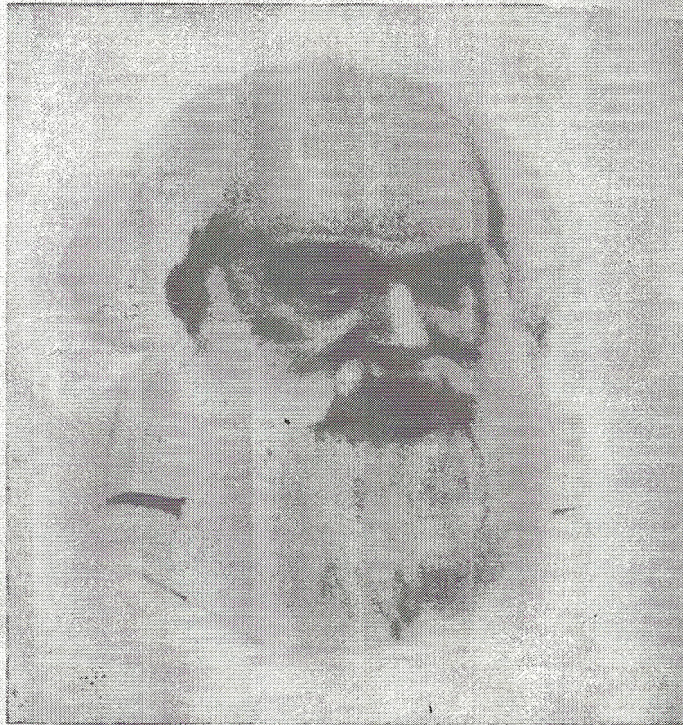

Everything was going according to this master plan until Adolf Hitler retook control of Germany away from the Satanic, internationalist plan and restored it to the service of the German people. He immediately undertook a national revival very similar to the one described in the Books of Ezra and Nehemiah in the Old Testament. He branded the Jews by causing them to once again wear their yellow stars. And, oddly enough, he called it the "Thousand Year Reich".

VICTOR E. MARSDEN

The translator of the famous Protocols was himself a victim of the Revolution in Russia. He had lived there for many years and was married to a Russian lady. As Russian correspondent to the "Morning Post," his fearless description of the events in 1917 incurred the anger of the Soviet. He was arrested and thrown into the Peter-Paul Prison. When he was finally allowed to return to England after two years, his health had been seriously affected. One of his first tasks as soon as he was able was this translation of the Protocols, which necessitated many hours' work at the British Museum. He later became the "Morning Post" special correspondent in the suite of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales on his Empire tour.

But within a few days of his return from the tour, he died after a brief illness.

Professor Nilus was a priest in the Orthodox Church in Russia. He published the first Russian language edition in 1905. In his introduction he says that a manuscript had been handed to him about four years before by a friend, who vouched that it was a true translation of an original document stolen by a woman from one of the most influential and highly initiated leaders of Freemasonry, at the end of a meeting of the initiated in France, "that nest of Jewish-masonic conspiracy." Nilus adds that the Protocols are not exactly minutes of meetings, but a report, with a part apparently missing, made by some powerful person.

Nilus admits the impossibility of producing written or oral proof of the authenticity of this document and says that we must be satisfied with the circumstantial evidence which abounds.

In January, 1917, Nilus had prepared a second edition but before it could be put on the market the revolution of March 1917 had taken place and Kerenski ordered the whole edition to be destroyed. Later Nilus was arrested by the Bolshevik Cheka, imprisoned and tortured. He was exiled and died in Vladimir on 13th January, 1929.

Perhaps it truly was the span of what had been known to history as the Holy Roman Empire – meaning central Europe and, primarily, what was to become Germany – that physically represented the biblical "Thousand Years". The Third Reich of Hitler only brought it to a glorious and immortal close.

(For those who may have wondered about the First and Second Reichs, this Holy Roman Empire, which ended only at the time of Napoleon, was the First. The German Empire of Bismarck, dating from 1871 to 1918, was the Second.)

Since 1945, Satan has ruled the planet unopposed in the form of governments totally Jewish dominated. And this undeniable fact places us squarely at page 1289 of my Bible which consists of a total of 1291 pages. Very close to the end.

Some years ago a novel was written entitled, "Camp of the Saints". It described a situation wherein the states of Europe found themselves morally and physically unable to fend off a floodtide of refugees – "boat people" – rushing to their shores from the colored Third World. A colored invasion – albeit a "peaceful" one – that we cannot resist because we are not in control of the governments or institutions which sit in charge of our affairs and our future. Where the armed assaults of the Middle Ages failed, this one is succeeding.

And there is no place left on earth for us to fall back onto for safety and the most basic racial integrity.

From Revelation, Chapter Twenty, Verse 9, "And they went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city: and the fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them."

We must back up at this point to a most curious thing in the previous verse, "And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together for battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea."

Clear reference is made to the numberless masses of the colored Third World. But what is this business of "Gog and Magog"? One more phenomenon inserted into the Bible to catch the eye of – indeed, to be caught ONLY by – the most astute.

To discover the meaning of this critical hint, dropped so neatly yet so out of place in the middle of a sentence, we need to refer to Ezekiel

Henry Ford, Sr.

Order of the German Eagle

in the Old Testament. From Chapters Thirty-Eight and Thirty-Nine of the Book of Ezekiel –

"Son of man, set thy face against Gog, the land of Magog, the chief prince of Mesbech and Tubal, and prophecy against him,"

"And say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I am against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Mesbech and Tubal:"

"Be thou prepared, and prepare for thyself, thou, and all thy company that are assembled unto thee, and be thou a guard unto them."

"After many days thou shalt be visited: in the latter years thou shalt come into the land that is brought back from the sword, and is gathered out of many people, against the mountains of Israel, which have always been waste: but it is brought forth out of the nations, and they shall dwell safely all of them."

"Thou shalt ascend and come like a storm, thou shalt be like a cloud to cover the land, thou, and all thy bands, and many people with thee."

"Thus saith the Lord God; it shall also come to pass, that at the same time shall things come into thy mind, and thou shalt think an evil thought:"

"And thou shalt say, I will go up to the land of unvalled villages; I will go to them that are at rest, and that dwell safely all of them dwelling without walls, and having neither bars nor gates,"

"To take a spoil, and to take a prey; to turn thine hand upon the desolate places that are now inhabited, and upon the people that are gathered out of the nations, which have gotten cattle and goods, that dwell in the midst of the land."

Before getting too far along, it is necessary to begin to clarify some of the meaning here which may not be immediately apparent to the new reader.

Historically, Gog and Magog is the biblical term for the Khazar Empire, mentioned previously as having been scattered by invading Turks in the mid-Ninth Century. This comparatively vast realm – as large in area as that of Charlemagne in the West – laid between the Black and the Caspian Seas and can be found in any competent historical atlas.

The huge significance is that the people of this Oriental nation – themselves racial cousins to both the Turks and the Edomite or Canaanite Jews of the Bible – would come to a conversion en masse to Judaism well before their land was to be conquered. And today, the great majority of those who call themselves Jews are their descendants, known among World Jewry as Ashkenazim. (The Canaanite Jews are known among themselves as Sephardim.)

Again, a person can check this business of Gog-Magog, the Khazars, etc., with any edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica dating from the opening years of the Twentieth Century. These can be found in most major libraries. Later editions have had this information deleted.

Though Gog and Magog has long since been erased as an entity from any recent map, its people still exist and sit in control of the governments, finances and media of all the White nations of the earth. They ARE the Jews. Just as true Israel no longer exists as a political or geographical entity – and do not count the bandit state of "Israel", a phony creation of the Edomite Jews – RACIAL Israel is what makes up the White states of Europe and America together with any White enclaves found anywhere, from South America, to South Africa, to Australia, to New Zealand, etc. Indeed, the "four quarters of the earth".

Under direct attack will be "the land that is brought back from the sword". This is one of the central themes of the books of the prophets. It refers specifically to the resettling of the Tribes of Israel in their new home in Europe where, by virtue of comparative geographic isolation, they can again go on with fulfilling their biblical destiny.

"And is gathered out of many people," Remember from the outset of this article that Manasseh had replaced Dan in the listing of the Twelve Tribes in Revelation. But, in reality, Manasseh does represent the THIRTEENTH Tribe – when Joseph split in two: Ephraim and Manasseh, or Great Britain and the United States. The motto of the United States is "E Pluribus Unum", or "One Composed of Many". Thirteen original colonies, thirteen original stars in its constellation, fashioned from the people of every one of the Tribes. And "unwalled villages"...

With or without a Third World invasion of a military nature, the United States particularly is rapidly being swamped in an ocean of colored races. And this is only happening because of alien, Jewish occupation of all national offices, all media, everything, so that White self-awareness and self-defense is an impossibility. Of course, the rest of the White nations on earth and their fates are inextricably bound up with that of the United States – indeed, they are one and the same. It therefore is to be expected for the great climax to take place here, in the United States.

The Devil and his horde are thus positively identified.

If the individual will notice, there are two things running parallel throughout the entire Bible which, from the time of the inclusion of its very last entries to the present day, have mystified and confounded all readers: One, the quaint and poetic descriptions of what could only be manifestations of extremely high technology and; Two, a philosophy geared toward helping isolated persons to exist within and survive an unspeakably foul and alien social environment.

Weird and weird again. That was until, hand-in-hand, miraculous high-tech was re-achieved on earth by man and he also became a slave to it. This is the biggest single "trick" contained in all those many pages of "The Book of Books". From living reality, into myth and fable, and back again. No room here for fake. Again, right here is the acid test of the validity of the whole thing. It is literally ALIVE!

Now, from Chapter Thirty-Eight, Verse 14, of Ezekiel, "Therefore, son of man, prophesy and say unto Gog, Thus saith the Lord God; In that day when my people of Israel dwelleth safely, shalt thou not know it?"

"And thou shalt come from thy place out of the north parts, thou, and many people with thee, all of them riding upon horses, a great company, and a mighty army:"

"And thou shalt come up against my people of Israel, as a cloud to cover the land; it shall be in the latter days, and I will bring thee against my land, that the heathen may know me, when I shall be sanctified in thee, O Gog, before their eyes."

"Thus saith the Lord God; Art thou he of whom I have spoken in old time by my servants the prophets of Israel, which prophesied in those days many years that I would bring thee against them?"

This is God saying to his eternal arch-enemy: "Look! I've been expecting you!"

Verse 18, "And it shall come to pass at the same time when Gog shall come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord God, that my fury shall come up in my face."

Then the greatest of conflagrations ever to take place is described.

Lost and unworthy Whites will have done nothing to save themselves in this, the Battle of Armageddon. If anything is meant by "the grace of God", this surely has to be it. The Creator didn't go to all this trouble, transplanting his seed – his own DNA – to this planet just to stand idly back and watch it go down the drain.

Chapter Thirty-Nine, Verse 7, "So will I make my holy name known in the midst of my people Israel; and I will not let them pollute my holy name anymore: and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, the Holy One in Israel."

"Behold, it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God; this is the day whereof I have spoken."

The enemy is slaughtered.

Returning to Revelation, Chapter Twenty, Verse 10, "And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophets are, and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever"

God has returned in the flesh.

Verse 11, "And I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and there was found no place for them."

New Jerusalem

In all the reading I've done regarding all the many interpretations of Revelation, absolutely no one has dealt with Chapter Twenty-One in anything which approaches what could be considered as appropriate.

From Verse 2, "And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband."

Verse 5, "And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful."

"And he said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely."

"He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son."

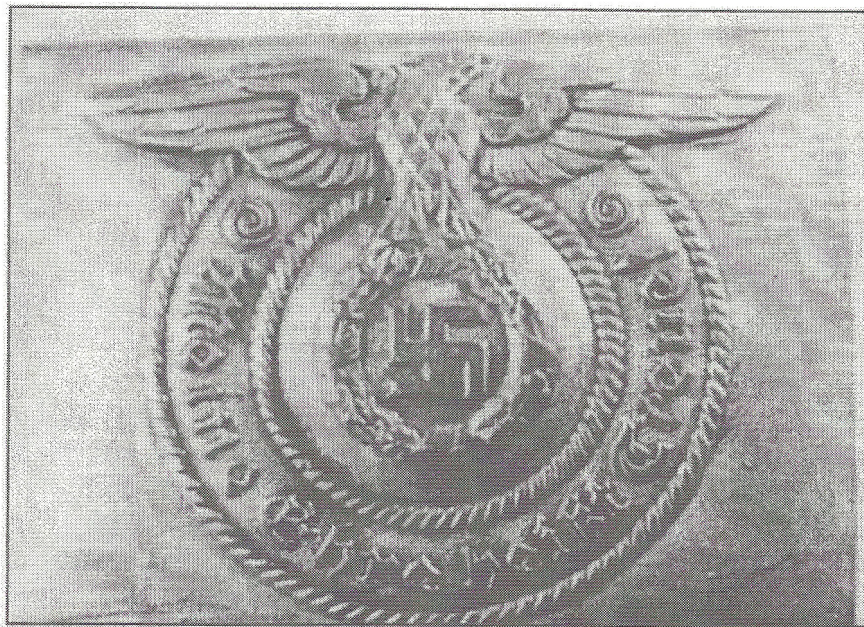

"But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death."

By this, apparently, it is of paramount importance what the individual does. But only insofar as the individual himself is concerned. There would seem to come a stop to the never-ending time dimensions and a final accounting is taken.

"The Alpha and the Omega". Who was around to witness the beginning other than God himself? And who will be there at the end, when a similar scene will repeat and will be witnessed by billions?

Verse 10, "And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and showed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God,"

An incredible description, in vivid color and intricate detail is given of something truly awesome, the nature of which becomes inescapably obvious as we read on –

SS Belt Buckle
"Faithful and True"

Verse 12, "And had a wall great and high, and had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel:"

"And the city lieth foursquare, and the length is as large as the breadth: and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal."

"And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of the angel."

This is a space vehicle, a perfect cube, approximately one thousand, four hundred miles square. Nothing short of an artificial planet.

Verse 22, "And I saw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the lamb are the temple of it."

Looking for, expecting, something of a baroque nature and only being confounded by endless high-tech.

Verse 23, "And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it: for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof."

Of course, it contains its own artificial light source.

Chapter Twenty-Two concludes –

From Verse 4, "And they shall see his face; and his name shall be in their foreheads."

Verse 6, "And he said unto me, These sayings are faithful and true: and the Lord God of the holy prophets sent his angels to show unto his servants the things which must shortly be done."

Verse 10, "And he saith unto me, Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand."

"He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still."

"And, behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."

"I am the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last."

The foregoing one thousand, two hundred and ninety-one pages have gone to lay out for the reader how and why it all began, what went wrong and why, who and what he himself is, what is genuine and what is deception, who his friends are and who his enemy is, how to conduct himself and what to strive for as well as what to fight against. He and everyone else is told exactly how it will all end. It is the supreme individual challenge. You can't affect the outcome. You can only choose your side.

The one and only chance anyone has to do this comes through awareness alone, against deception and ignorance. By now you may begin to get an appreciation of the extent of this very ignorance and deception, for it is practically universal.

Before I mentioned "tricks" contained all throughout the Bible, placed there to be caught only by the astute. Through these several essays, it has been both exciting and satisfying for me to lay out such things as the identity of Gog and Magog, the answer to the "666" riddle and to point out the real nature of John's New Jerusalem. However, perhaps the single most bizarre and electrifying discovery I have made in all of this involves something which, to my knowledge, no one has ever caught or suspected, much less been able to wonder about as with all of the rest.

When I first began earnestly to look into the Bible just as I was beginning the prison sentence which began in the summer of 1995, one of the very first things to have caught my eye was this New Jerusalem of Saint John's.

The familiar Jerusalem had been utterly flattened and laid waste by the Romans fully twenty-five years before John wrote of his vision, that was, in 70 A.D. It had been known as the City of David because King David had taken it from the Jebusites – one of the accursed Canaanite tribes – about the year 1000 B.C. Situated as it was atop Mount Zion, it had formerly been called Salem. But now, as of David's making it his capital of all the Tribes of the United Kingdom of Israel, and especially with his bringing into it the Ark of the Covenant, it became Jerusalem – meaning "the Lord is there" with reference to the power of direct communication with God via the Ark.

John's "city coming down from heaven". And this was a perfect, geometrical cube. I truly was hooked. One good friend I had there in that jail as I awaited transport to prison was something of a mathematical prodigy and, with the help of his pocket dictionary which converted furlongs into feet for us, he quickly arrived at the staggering dimensions I have already cited. Something that would about fit inside of the moon.

This was the first time that I realized the Bible held a message well beyond the bounds of the tiresome and irrelevant claptrap being peddled by these churches which I had already rejected while still a child. Maybe, if someone would have pointed out to me something like that then, I'd have taken an earlier interest. But how could they have? This was but one of the many things which "didn't fit" the superstition they cultivate which is only loosely based on the Bible.

This New Jerusalem could only be described as something super, ultra-high-tech as well as being of extraterrestrial origin. And God himself was supposed to be riding in it. Implications, even in the Fifties when I was gaining my early, negative impressions of the Church, were that here was something that simply didn't jibe with fairy tales and superstition. It was much more like the current science fiction. Science, yes. But how much fiction? And "science fiction" of two thousand years ago? Easier and safer to withdraw back into the fairy tales and allow your belief system to rot away.

Basically, that does close out the Bible. However, in researching for this larger piece dealing with the end of time, in the months just before the end of the prison sentence in the summer of 1999, I found that Ezekiel actually dealt with Revelation – at least the very final stages thereof – a great deal more than even John himself in the Book of Revelation.

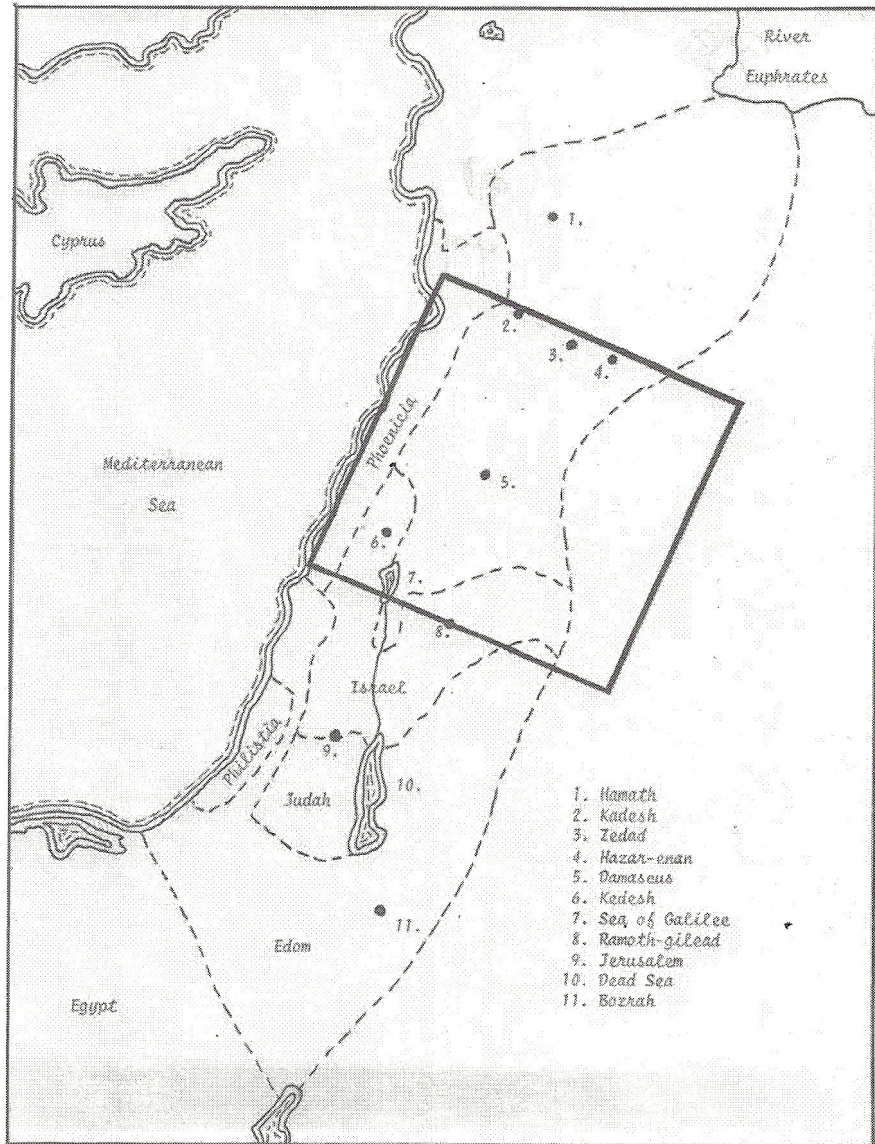

Particularly, I was struck by Ezekiel's focus on the final battle with Gog-Magog in such great detail whereas John himself only dropped the name.

Only afterward did I begin to catch something amid all the incredibly long and tedious recitation of the specifics supposedly attributable to a new temple and a new city. In the interim, since first coming upon the New Jerusalem, I had learned to be on the lookout for great things which the architects of the Bible had hidden "out in the open", so to speak. Especially all that which was contained in Ezekiel's final chapter, Forty-Eight, convinced me before very long that here was no "city".

John's "city", as we previously covered, has twelve gates representing the Twelve Tribes of Israel – three on each of the cardinal points of the compass. There is also a wall with twelve foundations – one for each of the twelve apostles. Dazzling colors everywhere corresponding to the twelve precious stones, again, representing the Twelve Tribes. Here too enters the "pearly gates" and the "streets paved with gold". There is a river and the Tree of Life. There is, once more, a source of artificial light. John mentions the thrones of God and of Jesus but no temple, as such. That's all.

Ezekiel's "city" is described also as a perfect square but not as a cube. And not descending from out of heaven but mapped out over the Holy Land.

From Chapter Forty-Eight, Verse 35, "It was round about eighteen thousand measures and the name of the city from that day shall be, The Lord is there."

As with John's "city", there are twelve gates and they are named for each tribe in exact order. No mention of a wall but, instead, a "suburb" which forms an outline all the way around. And in Ezekiel's "city" each of the Twelve Tribes is allotted an equal share inside this square. At the center there is a temple.

John's "city" is the New Jerusalem. Ezekiel's "city" is The Lord Is There. The same. (And I've asked some of these ministers what Jerusalem means and been told that they don't know. Concordances define it variously as "The Lord Is There" as well as "Possession of Peace".) Remember that Ezekiel and John are writing at least five hundred years apart and that Solomon's Temple still stood in the case of the former. It is in Chapter Ten of Ezekiel that the departure of the Lord from the Temple – just ahead of the fall of Jerusalem to the Babylonians and the destruction of the Temple itself – is described. (The fate of the Ark of the Covenant, which had rested for centuries in the inner sanctum, is conspicuously not revealed.)

The replacement temple of Zerubbabel came and went by the time John wrote Revelation and certainly bore no resemblance to either his or Ezekiel's specifications – quite naturally. And nothing has stood atop Mount Moriah since that time but the Moslem Dome of the Rock to commemorate the spot where, supposedly, Abraham was prepared to sacrifice his son Isaac to the Lord.

Religionists imagine the destruction of this mosque and the establishment of a third temple – performed at the hands of Edomite Jews, no less – will signal the end. Apparently they can't read.

Clear enough to me is that Ezekiel and John experienced the same vision concerning the time of the end. Except that Ezekiel gives us a lot more detail. And, although they both describe a fantastic "city", these obviously cannot be the same thing – for reasons we have already covered – and for this reason were their names given two different ways: They only complement each other. One is coming from out of heaven while the other is actually a corresponding grid on the surface of the earth.

Whereas determining the outward physical attributes of John's "city" was a comparative snap – due primarily to the simplest and most straightforward of details – recreating Ezekiel's pattern, going off of his extensive specifications, was a challenge. What then presented itself proved to be genuinely a case of sacred geometry. Because, of course, neither man was describing a "city" at all. All of that was intended as but a cover for something not intended to be generally known until just before the end.

Obviously, we're close enough now.

"Measures" and "reeds" are the standards which Ezekiel uses and I am, as of this writing, where there are not many competent reference works that would be needed to make the conversions. No matter. A square is still a square and to divide it into twelve equal bands is to do just that. Those are the "measures" done to scale. But what of the proportion of the "reeds" in ratio to the "measures"? Ezekiel himself, in Verse 8, gives it away –

"And by the border of Judah, from the east side unto the west side, shall be the offering which ye shall offer of five and twenty thousand reeds in breadth, and in length as one of the other parts, from the east side unto the west side: and the sanctuary shall be in the midst of it."

Immediately afterward this hidden dimension – already established with the twelve equal divisions – is given as "ten thousand reeds". And so by this we know we have here a rectangle exactly two and a half times in breadth as it is in length, everything on the grid being situated north to south. Following upon some stressful extent, we end up with the equivalent of seven more of these rectangles – having had to refer to Chapter Forty-Five, Verses 1 and 6, for the final two. A total of eight.

Backing up a bit, we begin with a perfect square –

"And these shall be the measures thereof; the north side four thousand and five hundred, and the south side four thousand and five hundred, and on the east side four thousand and five hundred, and on the west side four thousand and five hundred."

That was from Verse 16.

The problem of the overall, outer size of this grid can be estimated by the geographical description which Ezekiel provides in Chapter Forty-Seven. I make it at no greater than a hundred and forty miles per side. And, while that would indeed be a hell of a "city" even for today, it is still a far cry from something the size of the moon as in John.

Again, moving from north to south, we divide the square equally in strips or bands which stretch from east to west, thusly: Dan; Asher; Naphtali; Manasseh; Ephraim; Reuben; Judah; Benjamin; Simeon; Issachar; Zebulun; and Gad. Chapter Forty-Eight, Verses 1 through 7, and 23 through 27.

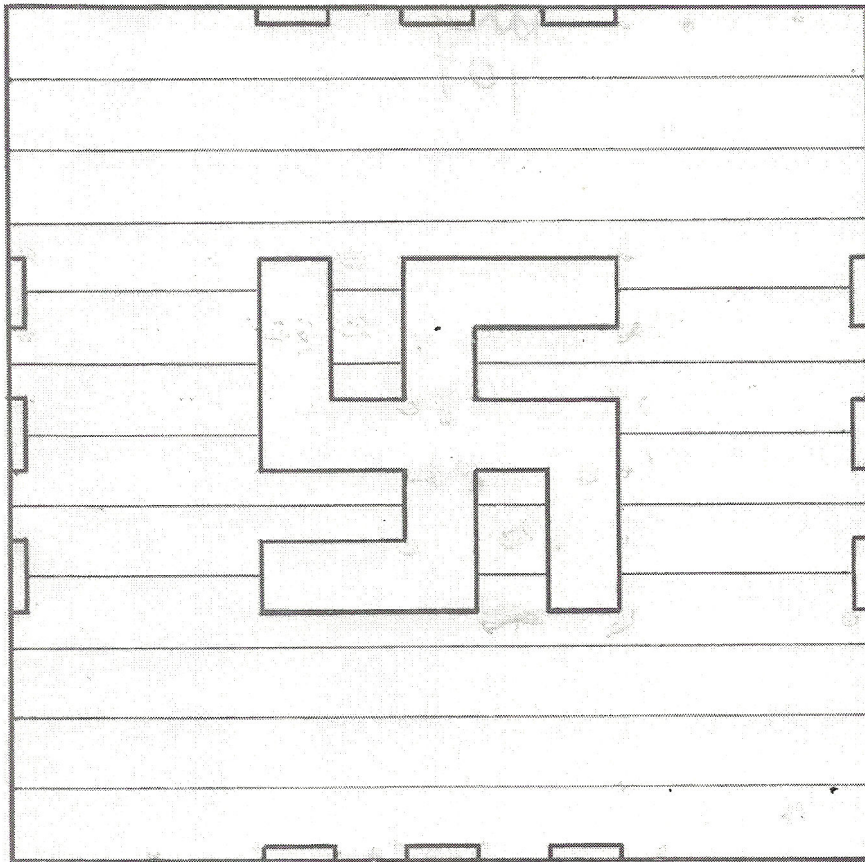

Returning to the key Verse, 8, we know to begin this assembly at Judah's border; that is, midway from top to bottom. Also we know that, when finished, the sanctuary will rest at dead center. We are thus provided perfect symmetry.

Now for the alignment of the gates: Clockwise, from the northwest, three to a side; Reuben; Judah; Levi; Joseph; Benjamin; Dan; Simeon; Issachar; Zebulun; Gad; Asher; and Naphtali. Chapter Forty-Eight, Verses 31 through 34. The priestly Tribe of Levi receives no portion inside but does have its own gate. The Tribes of Manasseh and Ephraim that did each receive their own portions within are now back together as one in Joseph who has a gate.

There is mention of a narrow "suburb" around the outer edge of this "city", measuring two hundred and fifty, but this does nothing to affect the overall symmetry. Verse 17.

Verse 18 refers to a "residue" of ten thousand measures, presumably square, "against the oblation of the holy portion". This holy portion, described in Verse 10, is actually a double portion – or the equivalent of two rectangles – making an axis north to south, as opposed to the initial rectangle which was oriented east to west. I would take this to mean dead center. A cross. In fact, Verse 21 would tend to make this explicit as the "residue" must adjoin the others – north, south, east and west.

Revisiting Revelation

Place now the twelve gates at what one would have to presume to be perfectly symmetrical positions equally around the outer border and you have not only a perfect grid but also the necessary building blocks – no more and no fewer – for an equally perfectly proportioned Swastika. It fits very pleasantly within the outer, overall square.

One potential problem might come in Verse 20 –

"All the oblation shall be five and twenty thousand by five and twenty thousand: ye shall offer the holy oblation foursquare, with the possession of the city."

However, there is no way to take those portions and assemble a square. Yet, by the very language itself, it MUST form a square and each side be "five and twenty thousand". Unless, again, it is a square SWASTIKA and this refers to each of the four arms.

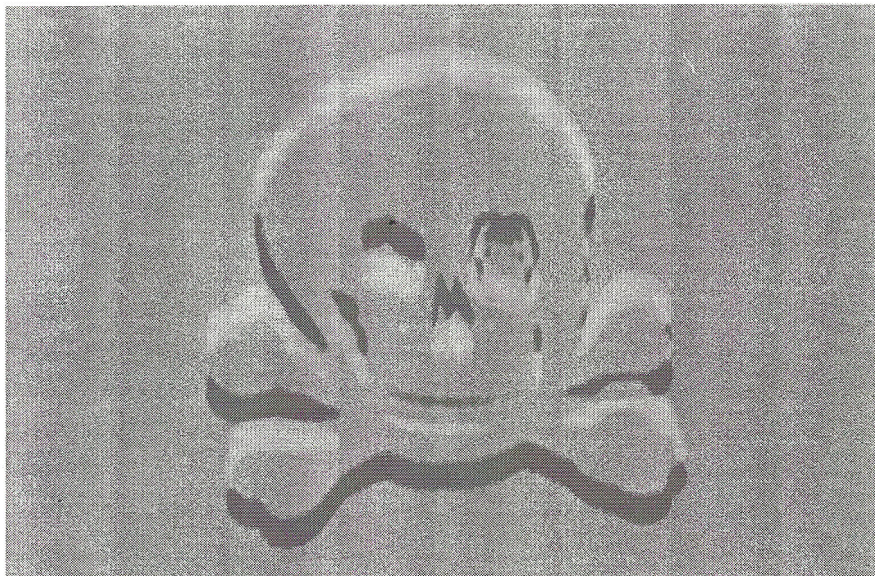

I could be wrong in this. But I would appreciate it if someone would demonstrate to me the pattern that Ezekiel was really hinting at if I am wrong. Personally, as I was working this out for myself on paper, I was taken back to the summer of 1966 when, as an adolescent, I was irresistibly moved to construct a Swastika banner from out of red, white and black poster board. And this was more or less the same formula I used then. Hitler, in Mein Kampf, related that it took him some time and study in order to achieve the proper aesthetic proportions for the Party flag, even-though it was a foregone conclusion that the Swastika would be the Party symbol.

(As I mentioned in another essay, "The Theocrat", Hitler had grown up with the Swastika as it has been a fixture in the stone work over one main portal in the church at Lambach, Austria.)

People will assume that I am overreaching this. Do the math for yourself. Given the message – the REAL message – carried within the Bible, that of racialism and self-defense against Jewry, which we have dissected and brought forth undeniably, given the meaning of 666 which we have cracked beyond the shadow of any doubt, given the fact that the Swastika has existed as long or longer than any other symbol that is intimately associated with the White race, and given the biblical talk of "new" or otherwise unspecified "names" and "marks" from the Lord for all his people, I don't feel that this is anything beyond or short of what would be considered logical.

But I could be prejudiced.

For three years, since I started all alone on this deadly battle against the enemies of humanity, I have seen too many wonderful "accidents" not to believe with all my heart in an Unknowable Power Which has led us from one incredible victory to another in spite of the most unspeakable attacks by the Jews and their tools. Time after time, my own judgement has been weak compared to some unforeseen development which proved to be the deciding factor. The White Man is too far sunk in disaster and despair to imagine we can win without a "miracle". Three years ago I wrote that I believed that if we stood up and FOUGHT with all our might, defiantly and even arrogantly, like the early Christians, that miracle would take place.

It has!

Our "Hate Bus" was CHEERED and welcomed in hundreds of towns where all the White Men had been seeing were "freedom busses" full of hateful men and women trying to tyrannize and destroy our White Christian America. We put new heart and FIGHT into despairing Americans who have begun to say, "It's no use! They're too strong!"

The HELL they're too strong! They are no stronger than the British Army was compared to the ragged Patriots who froze at Valley Forge, --and you know who won! A thousand times in history, tiny "David"s have conquered mighty "Goliath"s with FAITH and COURAGE, because an Unknown Force always steps in on the side of those with the Guts, the Will and the Integrity to stand up even when all seems lost. Right is not Might, --but Right, coupled with GUTS, generates more might than armies and emperors and tanks and rockets.

I do not believe in any orthodox religion. I do not believe that any man can turn his collar around and tell me what is going on any better than my own heart and mind tells me. But I am NOT an Atheist. I couldn't be, and stand the gaff of the battle with the all-powerful Jewish enemies of humanity, as I do. When my boys, (who include Protestants, Catholics and Atheists), go out on the hill near our barracks after arriving safely from such a two-thousand-mile running battle, one of them falls on his knees in gratitude, and I see the picture of that light falling out of the clouds upon his young, up-turned face, --I am moved! I refuse to join any race-mixing church, but I know I am not alone in this terrible battle with forces far beyond my powers.

This letter is to try to pass along some of the spirit which moves the heroic young Americans who come here to FIGHT, as their forefathers gathered at Valley Forge.

We get thousands of letters from people all over the world. Perhaps you have written some of them. They tell us how much they appreciate what we are doing, how courageous is our fight, and how they wish for our success. Some include literature.

But mighty few think to include the "ammunition" it takes to SURVIVE in this battle, let alone FIGHT. You know that even to DISCUSS the Jewish question, an average American risks his job and his income. We go out into the streets, day after day, week after week and figuratively "apit in the eye" of the Jews and their Negro tools. We have beaten their insane -asylum attack. We have gotten one of their top diplomats thrown out of the number two job in the Russian Embassy in Washington. We have beaten their jails and prisons. We have faced their hoodlums and murderers. I personally walked out into TEN THOUSAND screaming Jews in Boston, and proved that they can be defied! We have STOPPED the Negro pickets who were disgracing the streets of New Orleans. We have put FIGHT into millions of White Christian Americans, and, altho the Jewish press won't admit it, it is WE who have generated a whole new "right-wing" spirit in America. The Moscow radio knows it, and howls about it, --but it is reported only in the NKW-private papers.

You can't stand in the street with us and fight for America with your fists. You can't go to jail and the insane asylums, as our lads do, nor can you afford to lose your job. But you CAN help the brave young Americans who DO THESE THINGS FOR YOU.

I refuse to beg. I cannot imagine Washington at Valley Forge whimpering for money in spite of the suffering of his men. But he must have ASKED FOR IT.

This letter is to ask you manfully and directly to PITCH IN and HELP these wonderful, brave, fighting young American kids who are winning back your heritage as WHITE CHRISTIAN AMERICANS! Don't let them go hungry, as they are! Don't let them sit in jail for lack of even small bail, --as they have. Don't let them lose their teeth for lack of money to go to the dentist, --as they are. (And me too).

Put all you can in the enclosed, self-addressed envelope, --and mail it right away, please.

We do not just send you paper and talk for your money. You can pick up almost any newspaper in America and see that we are giving BLOOD, --ours and some of the enemies', --for the FIGHT to save America and the White Race of people who made it possible. Mail that envelope with some CASH, --and know that you're not just talking, --you are FIGHTING!!!!

In dedication to WHITE, CHRISTIAN AMERICA!

I AM AN AMERICAN NAZI

For most of my life, I thought Nazis were criminals and murderers, like a lot of people still do. Then I found out Nazis are people who believe in RACE, — like most Americans, PATRIOTISM — like most Americans, ANTI-COMMUNISM, like most Americans, and Christian Civilization, — like most Americans do. I learned that there is only ONE GROUP IN AMERICA which is willing to stand up and FIGHT FOR THESE THINGS, and I want other people to know we are not gangsters or "hate-mongers", just AMERICANS who want to save our WHITE RACE and our REPUBLIC from a gang of rotten Communists and race-mixers.

This is the Symbol of
MY FAITH

The CROSS is the symbol of Western, Christian civilization.

I believe America was founded as a CHRISTIAN Nation, and nobody has a right to destroy that tradition of the majority.

This is the Symbol of
MY COUNTRY

My ancestors fought and died to establish our blessed American Constitutional REPUBLIC.

I believe we have the right to KEEP it a REPUBLIC, not a race-mixing Democracy as the Reds preach.

This is the Symbol of
MY RACE

... My WHITE Race. The swastika was first used by the White Conquerors who brought civilization to India, the Aryans. Because I love my WHITE RACE, it does not mean I hate other races. But I DO hate what some "minority" groups are DOING to my White Christian America. Forced and hypocritical race-mixing helps NOBODY but the Communists, who want chaos and upheaval.

WHY THE SWASTIKA?

For six years I worked as a "conservative" to save our Republic and our White Race from the Communists, who openly plan to smash these precious things. Then I discovered that millions of Americans ALREADY know all about what is going on. But they are AFRAID to admit they know what is going on and WHO is doing it! The enemies of America have made it dangerous and expensive to be a strong anti-communist. And they have made it IMPOSSIBLE to say one word about the racial Jews who are PUSHING communism and race-mixing. If you dare to tell the truth or even ASK about it, you lose your job and face ostracism even by your fellow anti-communists who don't want to lose THEIR jobs, which they will unless they curse you and drive you out, -to appease the Jews.

From experience in combat in World-War II and Korea I know that men cannot be induced to fight a dangerous fight by leaders who stay only in the rear. People follow and FIGHT for a leader who gets out in FRONT and leads a dangerous ATTACK!

I learned that many of our people are sound ASLEEP and need to be SHOCKED awake. They simply pay no attention to "conservative" facts and arguments. They are too busy with their TV, sports cars, money and luxury.

In addition, the enemy controls the TV, papers, movies etc., and sees to it that "conservatives", "state's righters", and other "nice" fighters never reach the people with their facts and arguments.

At one bold stroke, the Swastika completely SMASHES all these obstacles to the victory of White Christian Americans!

The Swastika is SO anti-Jewish that our survival and success with it emboldens scared millions of Americans to come out from under the bed just a little, and eventually they will get brave enough to tell the WHOLE TRUTH ABOUT THE JEWS!

Our iron NERVE in DARING to face the Jews with the Swastika brings us hundreds of brave and fanatic YOUNG MEN instead of the eternal OLD FOLKS in the other right-wing groups. The Swastika is the ideal symbol to lead YOUNG men into COMBAT for their White Race and Republic!

The Swastika SHOCKS Americans into ATTENTION to what we are saying and doing as nothing else will. Every day I am speaking to more mobs of mis-led kids in colleges and universities across America, ONLY because we are INTERESTING and SHOCKING. They come to see the fight or to see me killed. And they stay to LISTEN and LEARN! --It WORKS!!

The "managers" of our news and press can hide "conservatives" and "states righters" with their private-meetings from the people.

BUT THEY CANT HIDE FIGHTING NAZIS MARCHING AND SPEAKING IN THE STREETS UNDER THE SWASTIKA BANNER OF THE WHITE RACE!

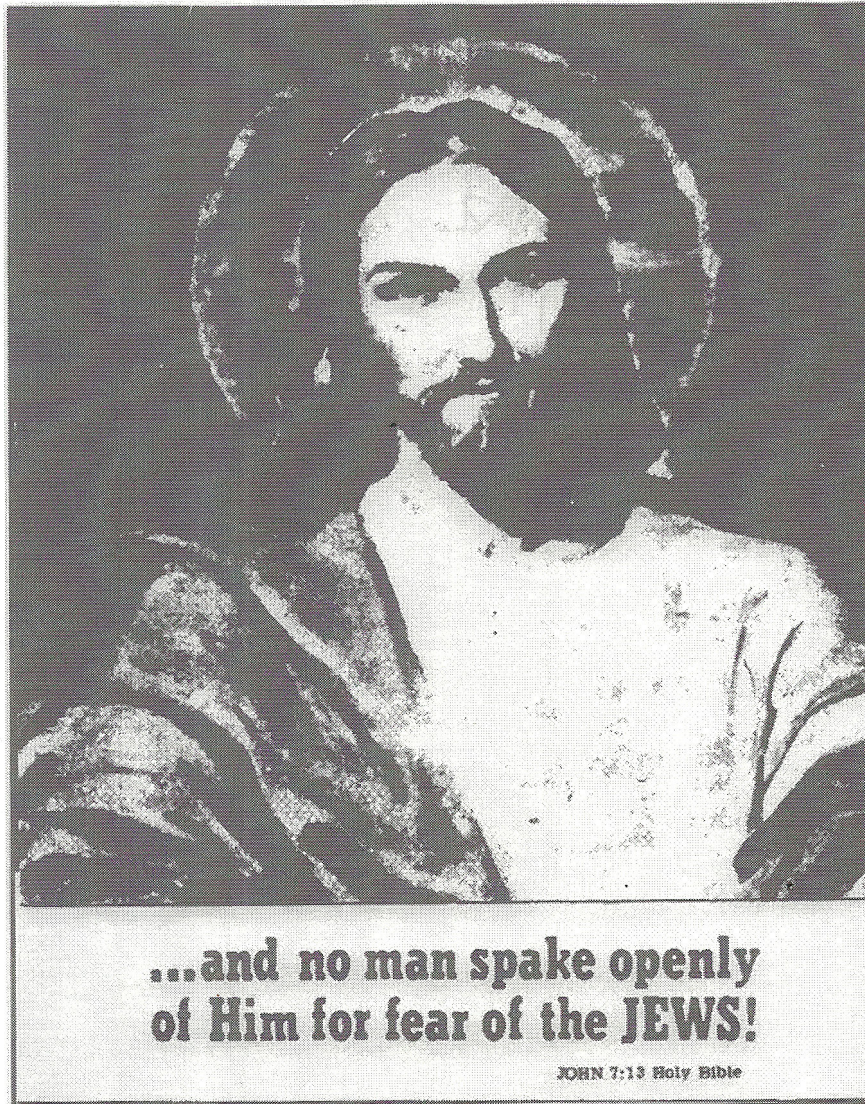

Without any real money or help, we have bashed our way from obscurity to international strength only because we have dared to defy the Jew Communists and race mixers with what they hate most--the SWASTIKA!

There is nothing like DEMONSTRATION to convince people. They won't believe you when you TELL them about the Jews and their Communist race-mixing. But when they see, with their own eyes, how these supposed lovers of free speech, civil liberties and "brotherhood" try to murder and imprison NAZIS while they spend millions and fight hard for the "civil rights" of nigger Communists--you don't have to tell them what's going on. They see it!

Finally, as a matter of actual fact, the swastika has been for thousands of years, the very symbol of the White Race, just as the Star of David is the symbol of the Jew race. Do you think for a moment the Jews would permit us to get them hating and cursing the Star of David because we told a whole lot of lies about them? Never! The cross is the symbol of the faith of our civilization. The Star Spangled Banner is the symbol of our great American Republic! --But, without the swastika, we would have no symbol for our RACE!!

The cross of Christ was once the most hated and dangerous symbol in the world, but the early Christians did not run away from it. They stood and died for it when necessary. It is about time for the White Man to recognize that the swastika is the symbol of our sacred White RACE and to quit letting the Jews terrorize him into cursing it. Under the holy symbols of our faith, our nation and our race, the American Nazi Party will lead our people to complete and smashing victory over the Communists and race-mixers!

the most HATED symbol

35 AD

1965 AD

Two thousand years ago, the most hated symbol on earth was the Cross. The most hated idea was Christianity. The early Christians were persecuted, crucified and fed to the lions in the Colosseum for their beliefs. No man dared mention the name of Jesus for fear of punishment. In those days, it took guts to stand up for Christ, Christianity and the Cross. The early Christians stuck with it and finally won!

Today, nearly two thousand years later, the most hated symbol is the Swastika. The most hated idea is National Socialism (Nazism), and NO man dares mention the name of Adolf Hitler favorably without fear of persecution. Hitler stood up and proclaimed that White people are the most gifted people on earth and that our race must fight for survival and never perish. This is what Hitler lived and died for under the banner of the Swastika. The "hated" Swastika is no more of a handicap for us than was the "hated" Cross for the early Christians. The truth is never a handicap. Like Christ in his time, Hitler is the most lied about man on earth today. Nowhere can there be found favorable words about him ... only lies and hatred. Like the early Christians before us, we will rise from the depths of persecution and hatred to rescue our race and bring to all the White people of the earth the ideas of the greatest genius in two thousand years ... Adolf Hitler.

The present edition is still further improved, and the Supplement enlarged by the addition of a valuable chapter on the interpositions of God in the protection and salvation of the Anglo-Saxons in the darkest crises of their history, verifying the promise to Israel—"No weapon formed against thee shall prosper."

THE PRICE OF THE BOOK.

The work, though nearly double in size, and more than double in value, is still sold for $1.00. It can be obtained of the author at wholesale or retail.

HOW IT CAN BE OBTAINED.
